DEDICATED

To those who came before us, to a new and untamed country, sacrificing their all that we might have
this greater Northwest

So that in after years the student may not forget this year at college, so that the people of the Northwest and all who are interested in our college may have a brief account of the activities of the students and the college for one year; so that at all times there may be the additional bond between the college and a busy world, this book is published.

Chinook: The Indian

Chinook is the best known and most widely used Indian word on the Pacific Coast of America. It originated as the name of a tribe at the mouth of the Columbia River. Captain Robert Gray, in discovering and naming the river on May 11, 1792, and Lieutenant W. R. Broughton, of the Vancouver expedition, who explored the river for a hundred miles in the same year, 1792, were probably the first white men to encounter the Chinooks. The Lewis and Clark expedition spent the winter of 1805 to 1806 among those people and gave us the best early account of them.

As knowledge of the Chinooks increased, it was found that their power and influence extended over many neighboring villages and tribes whose peoples spoke dialects of the same primitive language. Major J. W. Powell, director of the bureau of American Ethnology, prepared a map of the "Linguistic Families of American Indians North of Mexico," which appeared in the Annual Report for 1885-1886 and again (revised) in Bulletin 30, Handbook of American Indians. That map shows the Chinookan Linguistic Stock extending along the shores of the Columbia River from The Dalles to its mouth and thence along the coast to Willapa Bay on the north and Tillamook Head on the south.

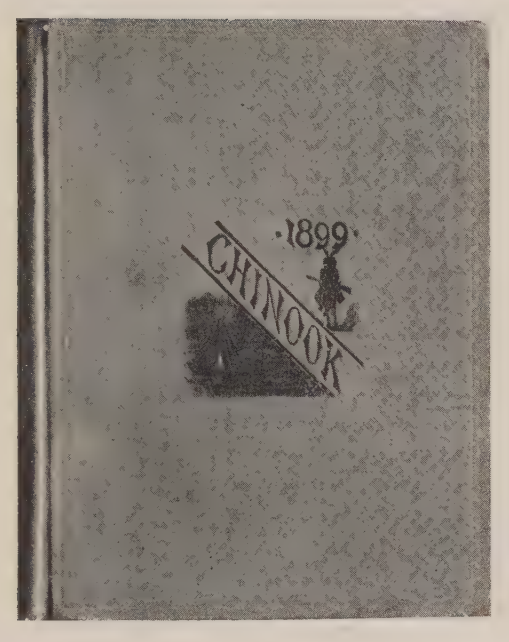
The principal chief of the original tribe and federation was Comcomly, who became famous at the time of the Astorians, following 1811.

Early fishermen applied the name Chinook to the wonderful salmon (Oncorhynchus chouicha) found in the Columbia River. The name was also applied to certain warm winds which melt the winter snows with remarkable rapidity. One of the most effective inter-racial trade languages produced in America is called the Chinook Jargon. It contains from 500 to 1000 words, about 200 being taken from the original Chinook language.

In 1829, about four-fifths of the peoples of the Chinookan tribes lost their lives in an epidemic of fever. There are now but a few remnants of the tribes and those are living on the Yakima Reservation in Washington and on the Warm Springs and Grande Ronde Reservations in Oregon.

We are indebted to Professor Edmond S. Meany, Head of the Department of History at the University of Washington, for the above article. Professor Meany is, without doubt, the greatest authority on Northwest history and he has kindly submitted this summary.

Chinook: The Annual



The first Chinook appeared on the campus in 1899 when the State College of Washington was a mere infant college under the name of Washington Agricultural College and School of Science. As to the name Chinook,—it was not chosen from the Indian tribe of that name, nor yet from the warm winds so called. Back in the early days when the Hudson Bay Company was establishing trading posts in the west, it became necessary to "make" a language for the use of the western pioneers and traders. Words from the French, some from the Indians, and some from the English, formed almost a standard language. It was an intermediary of expression between the American pioneers, the French and the Indian tribes. So Chinook was coined.

The class of 1900, first editors of the year book, decided to use the name Chinook for their publication, thus implying that it was to be a form of expression of college life and activities to people outside the institution as well as to students. In short, it was to be an intermediary of expression just as the language had been. The first Chinook was a medium sized book bound in a brilliant blue, the college color being blue instead of the present crimson and grey. The editor of this first Chinook was Daisy Busbey, and the manager was William M. Duncan.

Financially embarrased from the first attempt at a Junior year book, the two following Junior classes did not publish a Chinook. It was not until 1902 that the after effects of the first Chinook were paid off. In that year the second volume of the Chinook appeared, edited by Lewis W. Hatch. This time the book was smaller in size and had a red cover instead of a blue one. From this time on the Chinook became a permanent yearly Junior edition. Having thrived as a small book, the size was increased year by year until in 1910 it acquired its present dimensions.

The publishing of the Chinook has become almost a tradition on the college campus. Now it is one of the biggest publications of the school year. So originated the Chinook, thus was it named, and thus each year it is published as a brief record of our college life.

Higher Education and Democracy

EVERY public agency, in this time of depressed economic conditions, should respond cheerfully to the demand for economy, and it is the part of wisdom for the State College of Washington to catch step with the economic demands of the day. We are told, also, that higher education tempts the individual away from labor and out of the productive class. This is a broad charge. This does not apply to men and women of the State College of Washington who are making great sacrifices to become properly equipped for their life's work.

In the majority of cases young men and women receiving a college education are able to increase their earning capacity. But this is not the all-important issue. Our young people do not deserve an education at public expense unless they look far beyond the desire to make money.

With a college education comes a more complete understanding of the large social question affecting the stability and progress of a democracy. With this understanding should come a determination to serve democracy in times of need. Some folk have the notion that a democracy needs no defenders except when foes invade her land. This is a one-sided notion. The greatest dangers of a democracy are found in times of peace when the ideals fought for during a World War are forgotten. Few countries have been destroyed by invasion; many have disintegrated and disappeared because governmental agencies become insufficient, or corrupt.

A democracy cannot survive unless all its people are educated sufficiently to understand the underlying principles of a democratic government, and are willing, day in and day out, to fight in defense of these principles. We may include such essentials as protection of life and property, and the equalizing of economic opportunity. Equal opportunities will not be possible unless there is provided from the kindergarten to the last year of college or university a system that gives the fullest possible opportunity for the obscure child of talent to prepare himself for any trade or vocation open to men.

Here in America some have erred in assuming that education could make leaders of all. This assumption is absurd; but America is justified in saying to her men and women: "Many of you have not had the opportunity to make the most of your talents, but through the establishment of a public school system your children will have the fullest opportunity to obtain the best possible training; and if they are talented and possess qualities of leadership, they will have a fair opportunity to win success in their chosen professions and attain to positions of high responsibility in public service."

The record of the graduates of the State College of Washington is excellent. With practically no exceptions these graduates have been successful in their chosen professions; in a few instances they have made a great deal of money, but best of all, with practically no exception, they have upheld in their respective communities the principles of a democracy and helped to protect the government of which they are a part. In the great majority of cases these young people have made large returns to the state and the nation for the educational advantages they obtained at the State College of Washington. This is the record of every sound institution of higher learning in America.

Should we cast aside this great democratizing and equalizing agency, free public education, the ideals of democracy would be lowered, political stability would end, and the economic prosperity of our people would be jeopardized, if not totally destroyed.

E. O. HOLLAND, President.

The Alumni Association of the State College of Washington

The object of the Alumni Association is to secure a greater unity among the graduates and former students of the State College, in perpetuating love for the Alma Mater, contributing to its general welfare, and maintaining fellowship among its former students.

Membership regulations are: first, any person receiving a degree shall be an active member of the association; second, any person regularly enrolled shall be admitted to associate membership; and third, any person who has rendered valuable service shall be admitted to honorary membership.

The dues, including the subscription price to the Pow Wow, the alumni magazine, amounts to $1.50 per year. The magazine is published ten months in the year, from September to June inclusive.

The officers of the association for the year 1922-23 follow:

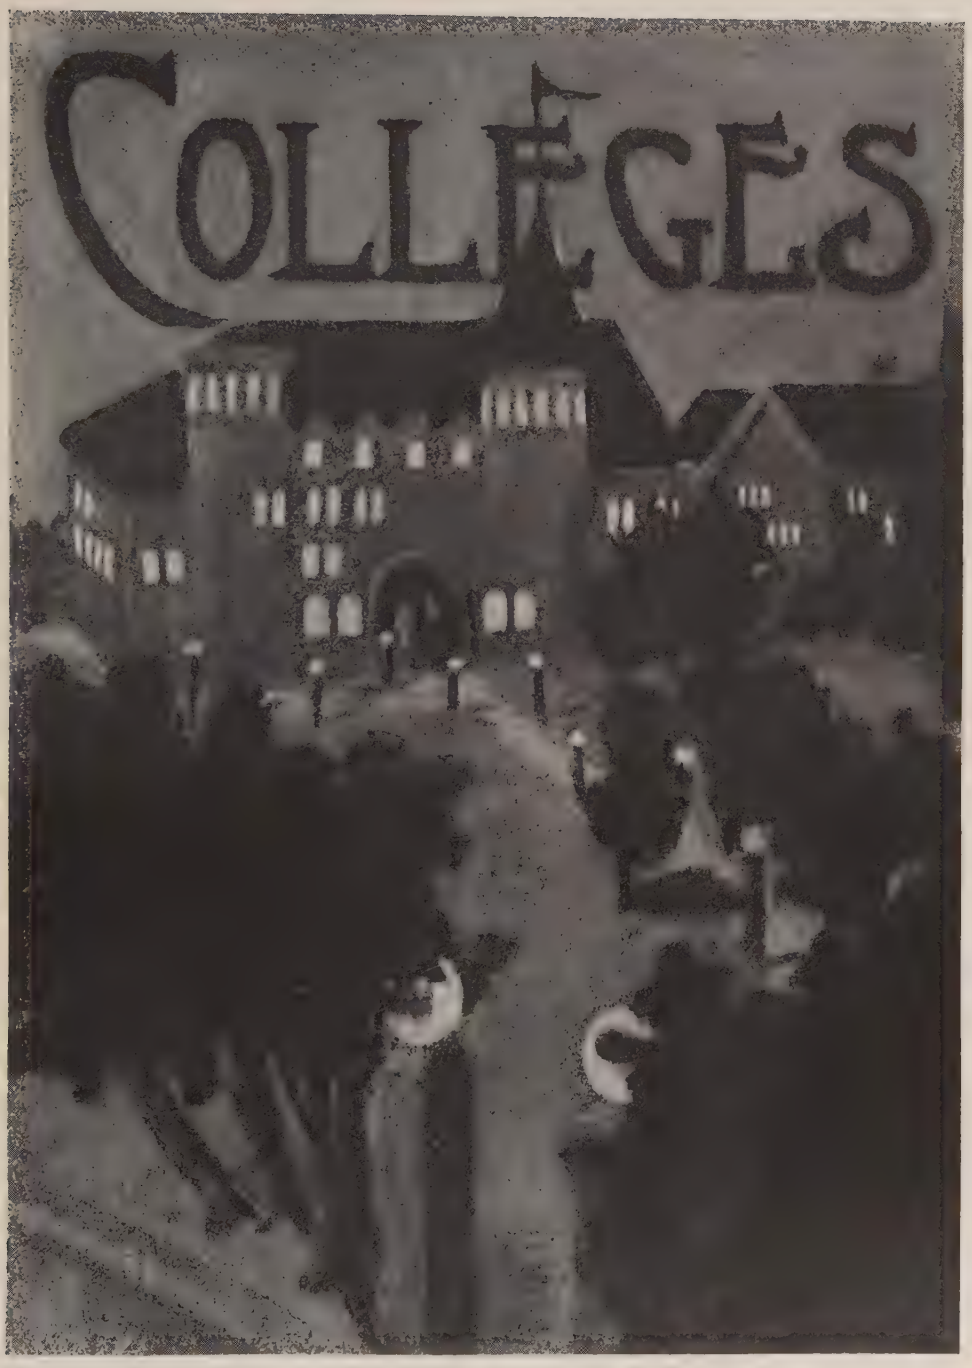
EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

All students of the college are members of the Associated Students of the State College of Washington. Officers are elected from the Junior and Senior classes. The president must be a senior. The other officers are, Vice President, Secretary, Auditor of the College, who is ex-officio treasurer, and a Graduate Manager of student activities. A Rooter-King is selected through an annual tryout and is appointed by members of the Athletic Council.

All college activities are under the supervision of the A. S. S. C. W. This includes Athletics, Oratory and Debate, Glee Clubs and College Publications. The three college publications are the Evergreen, The Cougar's Paw and the Associated Student Handbook.

A college hospital is maintained to which any student may go and receive medical attention without any charge in addition to the small fee which is paid at registration. The Student Book Store is also under the supervision of the A. S. S. C. W.

Lectures and other entertainments such as moving picture shows are arranged for by committees of the organization.



COLLEGES

The College of Agriculture and Agricultural Experiment Station

TRACTORS USED BY COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

"Encourage improvement; remember that Nature's motto is onward, she never goes backward."

This paragraph on the cover page of the College of Agriculture Announcement typifies the spirit and work of the College of Agriculture.

This college is one of the larger units of the State College and is composed of ten departments and the Agricultural Experiment Station with four branch stations and fourteen divisions.

LAMB FEEDING

The ten departments, which also constitute ten divisions of the Experiment Station are: Agricultural Engineering, Animal Husbandry, Dairy Husbandry, Farm Crops, Farm Management, Forestry, Horticulture, Plant Pathology, Poultry Husbandry, and Soils. The four additional divisions of the Experiment Station are Chemistry, Bacteriology, Zoology and Entomology and Veterinary Science.

The branch Experiment Stations are the dry land stations at Lind and Waterville, the irrigation Station at Prosser and the cranberry station at Sea View. The large Western Washington Experiment Station is located at Puyallup.

PRUNING

The Dean of the College of Agriculture also is director of the Main Experiment Station and branch Stations and the College of Agriculture faculty are members of the Experiment Station staff.

PURE-BRED HOGS

In addition, several research men do experiment station work only and each branch station has a superintendent with assistants.

THE PURPOSE AND AIM OF THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Many still believe that the purpose and aim of an agricultural college should be exclusively to train men how to farm just as a so-called business college with a year's course teaches stenography, typewriting and bookkeeping, or a barbers' college teaches how to cut hair, how to shampoo and how to shave. Wherever this idea is prevalent, agricultural education cannot be popular. The idea is wrong and those who have it need to revise their thinking.

While teaching students the art of farming and improvements on farming as generally practiced, is one function of an agricultural college, it is not the chief function, nor even its major function. Its first purpose is to furnish a broad, useful education by teaching students the "why" in agriculture and country life and the basic principles on which agriculture and agricultural progress rests; in other words, the science or sciences which underlie all agriculture.

A WOOL GRADING CLASS

This is not a simple thing. It is a combination of Chemistry, Botany, Zoology, Geology, Genetics, Physics, Mathematics and Economics, and of Soils, Crops, Animal Husbandry in its various branches, Horticulture, Plant Pathology, Farm Management, and other applied subjects in agricultural science. It is these subjects together with English, Education, Language, History, Music and other so-called Liberal Arts subjects which serve as the basis of the education of the agricultural student.

It is because of the very breadth of this education that it serves a man so splendidly in whatever field of work he may enter in after life. It is also because of this that graduates in agriculture may be found in so many vocations and professions and that there never seems to be an over-supply of competent agriculturally trained men.

CUTTING SUNFLOWERS

What other training, for instance, fits a man for so many vocations and professions as the following: practical farming, high school and college teaching, experiment station work, agricultural extension work, experimental entension and control work with the United States Department of Agriculture; agricultural control work with the state departments of agriculture; agricultural journalism, banking in agricultural communities, the seed and feed business, spray manufacturing, the fertilizer business, the farm implement business, the manufacturing of farm machinery, the handling of farmers' cooperative marketing associations. etc., etc.

One writer in discussing the aims of an agricultural college, puts it this way:

"The agricultural college trains men for leadership. Its agricultural students go into more than 150 agricultural occupations, on the farm and elsewhere. The conduct of these occupations makes possible the progress of agriculture. Agricultural students become successful modern farmers and farm managers, breeders of plants and animals, teachers of agriculture, agricultural writers and editors, county agricultural agents, officers and technical men in farmers' producing and marketing organizations, agricultural experimenters—in short, they become advocates of clear thinking and bearers of new facts, new enthusiasms, and new points of view on agriculture. In combining their enthusiasm, scientific training, historical knowledge, and broad vision with the great stock of practical experience possessed by their neighbors who are not college bred, they strengthen profoundly the agricultural enterprises with which they become associated and help to improve the communities in which they live."

It is clear, therefore, that the agricultural college and experiment station are maintained not only for the great service they render to the student privileged to attend college but their clientele is much more numerous and their service larger. Their aim is to blaze the trail of progress in agriculture and rural life and in business enterprises based on agriculture and to benefit that large number of people who never have the opportunity to attend college.

College of Home Economics

VAN DOREN HALL

In these days, when we hear so much about vocations for women and training for such vocations, the opportunities in the field of Home Economics should not be overlooked.

Training in Home Economics may be for a two fold purpose. First, to train women to enter the field as a special vocation, a gainful occupation, and also to fit her to take up her work as a homemaker.

The types of positions in which training may be put to use may be classified under four heads: (1) Teaching positions; (2) managerial positions; (3) positions which involve a combination of teaching and managerial work; (4) miscellaneous positions.

The College of Home Economics offers training for women to enter these fields and also to prepare women to meet their responsibilities as homemakers and good citizens.

THE PRACTICE COTTAGE

The College maintains a practice house for the students of Home Economics. This practice house is a laboratory arranged to afford each student an opportunity for practice in the management of a home. Its purpose is:

(1) To more fully establish standards of right living.

(2) To afford each student opportunity to measure herself by these standards.

(3) To afford the teaching staff means of checking up efficiency of the training given.

(4) To afford a limited amount of vocational experience.

College of Engineering

ALL ELECTRICALS

Courses are offered by the College of Engineering in the following subjects:

ARCHITECTURE	MATHEMATICS
CIVIL ENGINEERING	MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING	PHYSICS

Special courses are offered in Architecture, Automobile Engineering, and Mechanical Engineering.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS

It is the purpose of this college to give a broad, thorough training in mathematics and the physical sciences, with the application of these subjects to the fundamental and special branches of engineering science. While strongly emphasizing those subjects which are of fundamental importance to all branches of engineering, a considerable amount of specialization is permitted in the several groups of study offered by the college.

College of Sciences and Arts

A CLASS IN ORNITHOLOGY

Department of Botany

The food and clothing of the human family are furnished by the work of green plants. Botany deals with plants, their forms, their structure, their development and their life activities. Upon this science depends all successful work in plant breeding, propagation and cultivation, and the combating of plant diseases.

Disease prevention, food preservation, soil fertility—these are some of the common problems of the bacteriologists, physicians, nurses, public health officers, cooks, farmers—everybody needs to know of the useful and dangerous work of bacteria.

A BOTANICAL FIELD TRIP

Department of Zoology

The Department of Zoology trains students for science teaching, for medical college entrance, and for service as special investigators in government or state biological work.

A practical phase of zoological study is that dealing with predatory insect life. It is now known that but for the control measures developed by our zoologists, destructive insects would soon annihilate many of the food crops.

COLLEGE OF SCIENCES AND ARTS

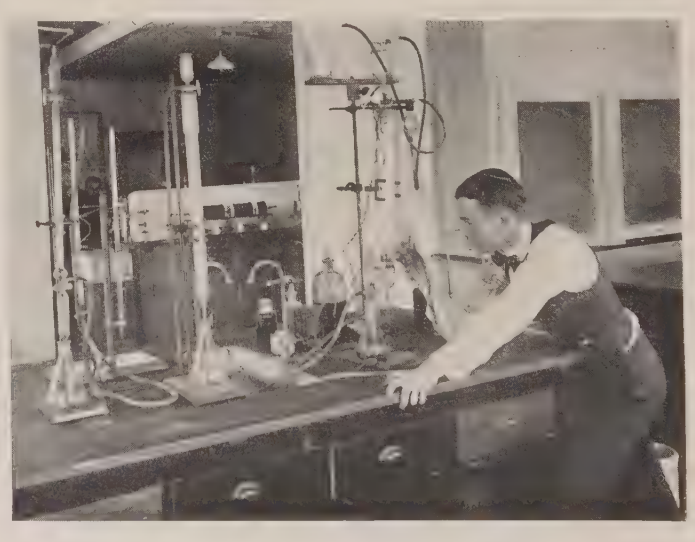
Department of Economic Science and History

ACCOUNTING LABORATORY

A knowledge of business, of sociology, and of history, is foundation equipment for those who expect to enter upon business careers. In the highly competitive situations of today, persons are not apt to succeed in business unless they are well trained in the requirements of the business professions. The untrained will meet the well trained—and lose in the contest.

Department of Chemistry

The science of chemistry offers ambitious young men and women an opportunity to identify themselves with the great industries of the country. Chemistry in one form or another enters into the manufacture of most of the articles we use—food, clothing, and so on. Without the practical use of this science there could be no modern, productive industry.



GAS AND COMBUSTION ANALYSIS

Department of English

EVERGREEN STAFF AT WORK

The work in English is planned to help those who would make practical use of the English language, whether in speaking, or in writing. Success in whatever vocation or profession depends in large measure upon ability to use good English. This department gives training in creative writing, in business correspondence, in advertising, and in all forms of journalism. The best models in English literature are kept constantly before the student.

Department of Modern Languages

PHONETICS LABORATORY

In the department of Modern Languages, skilled instructors from Europe and Spanish America give the foreign contact which the student wants who would learn to talk in a foreign language. Students are taught to think in French, German, and Spanish, and consequently, to read, speak and write those languages with ease and accuracy.

College of Veterinary Science

"VET" BUILDING

This college has just graduated its twenty-second class and now has 145 alumni. Its first class graduated in 1902 and since that time it has graduated men regularly, every year.

In addition to its regular undergraduate work this College commonly offers post-graduate work during the winter season, which is well attended by graduate veterinarians of the northwest. The group picture shows the men in attendance in 1923. They represent about one-half of the Veterinary College of the United States and Canada. The College is becoming the center of Veterinary education in the West as it is the only Veterinary College west of the Rocky Mountains, and many graduates of other schools regard it as the center of veterinary education in this great portion of North America.

Graduates from this College have a very wide range of vocations to choose from, but private practice has claimed the greatest number, because there are only about 7,000 men in that line of work in the United States and they are required to care for the health of approximately $7,000,000,000 worth of livestock, or there is about one million dollars worth of livestock for every practicing veterinarian in the U. S., so it is apparent that the field is not crowded. Aside from private practice many are in the quarantine or meat inspection service of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, and many more employed by the States, Cities, Counties, the Army and by private concerns to prevent the spread of diseases among domestic animals and from animals to man.

Motor power has affected the number of horses in the United States only slightly and the horses are gaining in numbers rapidly in the cities because they afford the cheapest form of motive power. Cattle and swine practice has developed to a stage never dreamed of by the veterinarian of ten years ago and small animals are the sole support of veterinarians of certain localities.

Taken altogether the future of the Veterinarian seems to be particularly bright and the demands for graduates promises to exceed the number that the colleges can supply. Too few realize the advantages that this college offers and too many young men are searching for professions in remote fields when they are well fitted by nature and experience for this profession which with its healthfulness and independence, is one of the few that is in demand and can be sold to the public wherever live stock are raised.

Remember that the Veterinary Profession is as substantial as the great Live-stock industry upon which it depends and that this great industry cannot be more secure than the corps of professional veterinarians that guards its health.

The School of Education

The Story of Its Growth and Development During 1922-23

1. ENROLLMENT OF MAJOR STUDENTS.

First semester 1921-22	99
Second semester 1921-22	137
First semester 1922-23	157
Second semester 1922-23	175

2. RESEARCH.

A number of important educational investigations have been undertaken by members of the faculty and by students of the School of Education.

3. GRADUATE STUDENTS.

There has been a considerable increase in the number of students taking graduate courses in Education and in particular in the number of teachers, principals and superintendents who are doing graduate work in residence during the Summer Session and research under the direction of a member of the faculty during the regular school year.

4. NEW COURSES.

Social Psychology, Employment Psychology, and the Psychology of Advertising were given during the year and the Measurement of Intelligence added for next year. In Education a course in Advanced Educational Measurements was given and High School Administration and an advanced course in Principles of Education added for next year.

5. DEPARTMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS.

Phi Delta Kappa, men's national education fraternity increased its membership and its value to its members.
Phi Mu Beta, composed of women of the School of Education, has had a very successful year.

Organization of the School of Education

1. FUNCTION.

The School of Education is a professional school coordinate with other main divisions of the College.
Its function is to train high school teachers, principals, supervisors and superintendents.

2. CURRICULA.

A. High School Teachers' Course.
Prepares teachers for all lines of high school teaching.

B. Principals, Supervisors and Superintendents course.
Prepares for supervisory and administrative positions.

C. Course for the training of teachers of Vocational Agriculture (Smith-Hughes teachers of Agriculture.)

D. Special two-year curricula for the training of teachers of Manual Arts.

Facilities for Doing Its Work

STAFF.

A staff consisting of six full time instructors, three part time instructors and twelve members of other divisions who give special Methods courses.

LIBRARY.

A well equipped departmental library of books, pamphlets and periodicals.

LABORATORY.

A psychological laboratory with equipment valued at more than two thousand dollars.

DIRECTED TEACHING.

Through arrangements with the local schools and the Elementary Science Department opportunity is offered with a limited number of students each year to teach under expert supervision.

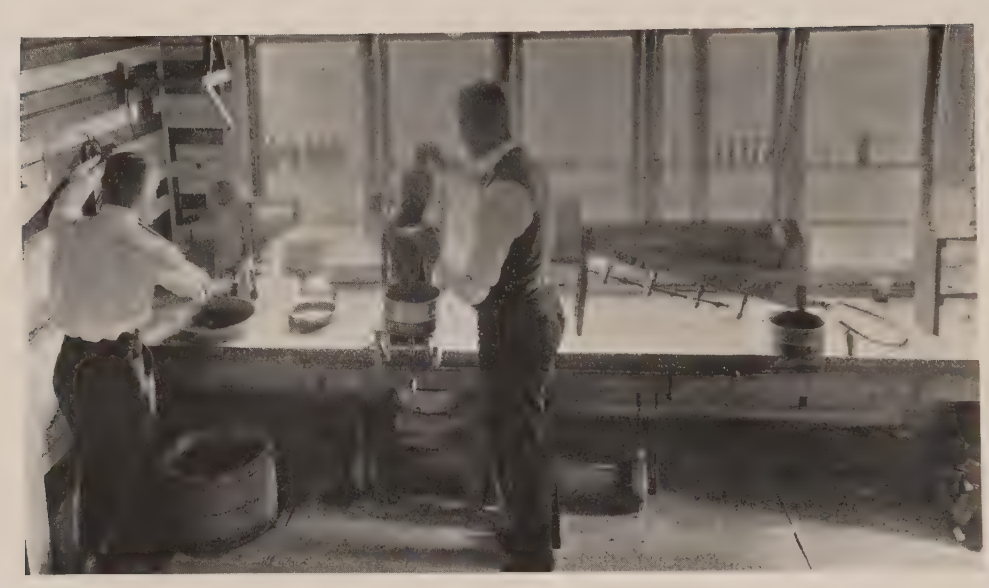
Aims of the School of Education

1. To direct the training of prospective high school teachers to the end that they may select the subjects and groups of subjects that will best fit them for high school teaching.
2. To give adequate professional training so that its graduates may know how to teach.
3. To provide advanced work in Education for those who are looking forward to positions of leadership in the public schools.

Teaching as a Profession Offers

1. Employment at a good beginning salary.
2. Opportunity for rapid advancement for those who are well prepared.
3. The opportunity of working in one of the most important fields of social service.

School of Mines



A CORNER OF THE FLOTATION LABORATORY

Perhaps the question most frequently asked by the youth who is trying to determine his course of study concerns the opportunities that will come to him for profitable employment upon graduation. A little thought indicates the inevitable tendencies of the next decade. British mining engineers have long been distinguished for their cosmopolitan practice. This has been due principally to the widespread investment of British capital in foreign lands.

It is generally accepted that during the next decade at least the United States will be the world's banker. It is a well-noted fact that the first investments made in foreign lands are largely venturesome, combining the hope of great profit with a commensurate great risk. American capital following this law will seek desirable mining opportunities abroad, thus opening new fields to the American engineer.

The demand for men technically trained in mining will be stimulated also by the search for new mines on this continent to supply the needs of revivified business.

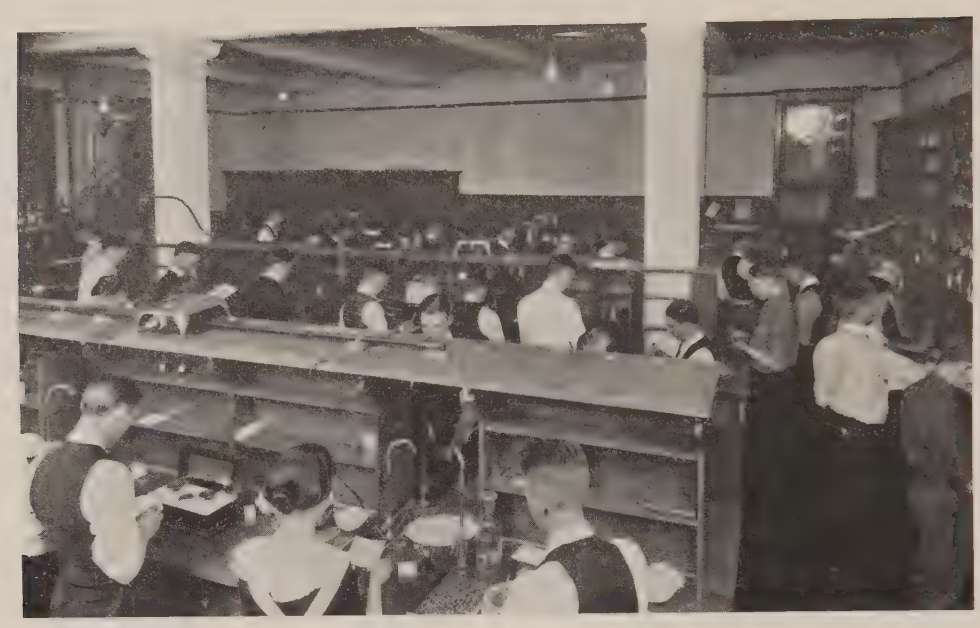
In metallurgy also the field has been enlarged through the development in war times of new uses for the metals and the more extended utilization of old ones. Many metallurgical problems remain to be solved and capital is more ready than before to assist in solving them. New alloys are being discovered, the development of which furnish many problems for the metallurgist, and in this field alone the opportunities are without limit.

SAMPLING AND CRUSHING

Mining and metallurgy offer a field, the training for which embodies the fundamentals of all other engineering and geology and chemistry as well. Versatility is the outstanding characteristic of the properly trained mining engineer. His is a general education, fitting him to meet problems of any nature as was so amply demonstrated during the war in such diverse lines as food conservation, shipbuilding, aeroplane construction, and the building of roads and bridges at the front by the justly famous mining regiment, the 27th Engineers, thrice cited for excellence in work not popularly associated with mining training.

The State College of Washington, through its School of Mines and Geology, with its well equipped laboratories and strong faculty is well adapted to educate mining engineers and metallurgists in the broadest way; to make of them citizens fitted to undertake responsibilities in public as well as private life, responsibilities that is becoming clearly understood the engineer is fully capable of meeting, with the greatest expectation of efficiency and success.

School of Pharmacy



PRESCRIPTION LABORATORY

The school of Pharmacy has for its purpose the training of men and women for a vocation in life that offers many opportunities in various fields, such as, the practice in retail Pharmacy, Pharmaceutical chemists for manufacturing drug firms, federal and state food and drug inspectors, teachers of Pharmacy and Chemistry, traveling salesmen for drug firms, investigators in pharmaceutical research and numerous positions in Civil Service work for the United States Government.

Three courses of study are offered by the School of Pharmacy; a two year course leading to the degree of Graduate in Pharmacy; a three year course leading to the degree of Pharmaceutical Chemist; and a four year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy. The School of Pharmacy also offers a three and four year combination course in which the work in both Pharmacy and Pre-medicine can be completed. In Pharmacy, as in many other professions, the tendency is toward higher educational standards, and in 1925 the two year course will be discontinued and the minimum course offered will be the three year course. Over 75 per cent of the students enrolled in Pharmacy are three and four year students.

The enrollment at the State College in Pharmacy has doubled three times in the past four years and totals this year one hundred and forty students. There are enrolled this year students from five different Universities, as well as from the following states and countries: Oregon, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Canada and Japan.

The ample laboratory facilities of the School of Pharmacy make it possible to offer exceptional training in manufacturing pharmacy and prescription practice, but this phase of the work is not over emphasized as is often done in Schools of Pharmacy. Adequate attention is given to training along commercial lines, and the work in commercial Pharmacy includes a wide variety of subjects, all appertaining directly to the many problems of a manager or owner of a drug store.

It is the aim of the School of Pharmacy to turn out the best Pharmacists that it is possible to produce. The reports received from the Pharmacists of the Pacific Northwest, and the success of the Alumni justify the belief that the School has lived up to its aim.

It is the wish of the School of Pharmacy that it may continue to enjoy the confidence and support of the Pharmacists of the State, who have so generously recommended the School to the young men and women who have contemplated the study of Pharmacy.

School of Music and Fine Arts

MANY people in the State of Washington do not realize fully the advantages offered by the School of Music and Fine Arts, or the number of students attending the State College who take work in the courses offered by this division. During the year 1922-23, more than 500 students took one or more courses in Music, 250 in Fine Arts, and 225 in Expression and Dramatic Art.

MUSIC

The following excerpts from a letter from Chas. E. Lutton, National Secretary of Phi Mu Alpha (Sinfonia), a men's musical fraternity which has chapters in most of the larger colleges and universities, will give an idea of the rank of the faculty of the Department of Music at the State College:

"Teacher for teacher, I think you have as fine a faculty as any state school in the country." "Your keen appreciation of what a student should have and your insistence on getting qualified teachers who are fitted to inculcate in the minds of the students such ideals has resulted in your splendid faculty. . . . I congratulate you on the high grade of work that you are doing. I congratulate you on the high ideals that your faculty possesses."

Numerous musical attractions are brought to the College, among them being some of the finest musical organizations and artists of the present day. Students are admitted to most of these attractions without fee upon presentation of their student tickets.

The musical organizations include the Chorus, Women's Glee Club, Men's Glee Club, Mixed Quartet, Orchestra, Band, String Quartet, Trios, and various instrumental combinations. Advanced students in Music have the advantage of playing concertos or singing arias with orchestra.

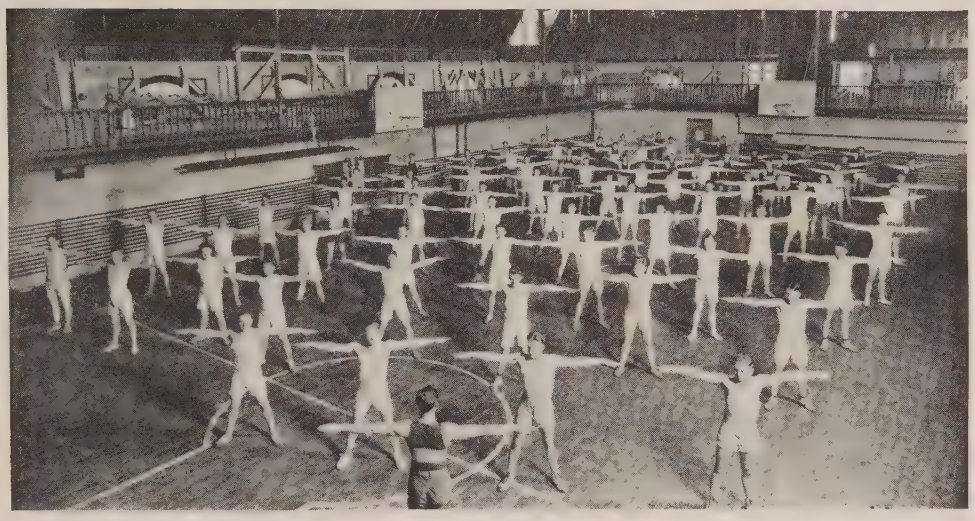
ART AND DESIGN

The Fine Arts Department offers fundamental courses in Design and Drawing which lead to the more advanced courses in composition, Interior Decoration, Costume Design, Commercial Art and Painting. Many original problems are developed and completed. The work is closely correlated with the Schools of Home Economics and Education in Industrial Art. Much of the success of the Department is due to individual attention given each student and this year finds more than twice the number of students enrolled. The Fine Arts Club endeavors to bring exhibitions of Art to the community.

EXPRESSION AND DRAMATIC ART

Students in Oral Expression and Dramatic Art have unusual opportunities for public appearances. The College Auditorium has a well-equipped stage for the production of plays and a number of plays are produced each year. Last June and July, the most proficient students in Dramatic Art formed a stock company and took over the American theatre in Spokane for a several weeks' engagement. Numerous recitals and oratorical and debate contests are held each year which afford many occasions for public appearances to students interested in Public Reading and Public Speaking work. The Department offers exceptional opportunities for finished work.

Department of Physical Education and Athletics

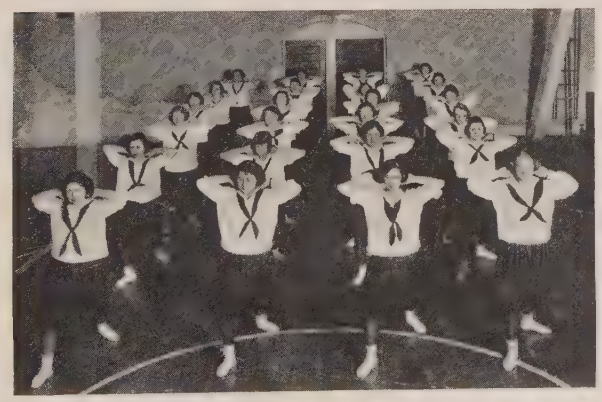


SETTING UP EXERCISES

The Department of Physical Education and Athletics offers a four-year normal training course, for both men and women, leading to a degree of Bachelor of Science in Physical Education. The object of this course is to train men and women as physical and recreational directors, playground supervisors and athletic coaches.

Besides this the department offers a program intended to stimulate the interest of the students in their personal health. This work includes the more formal work of the gymnasium and the intra-mural games and contests suited to the needs of both the men and women. Individual attention is given to the physically deficient.

The entire athletic program, the inter-collegiate as well as the intra-mural, is under the supervision of this department. The institution is a member of both the Pacific Coast and the Pacific Northwest Conferences comprising the following institutions: California, Stanford, University of Southern California, Oregon, Oregon Agricultural College, Willamette, Pacific, Washington, Whitman, Idaho and Montana. We compete with all of these institutions.



CALISTHENICS

The sports for women consist of intra-class and intra-group contests. This work is carried on during the fall and spring on Rogers field and consists of games in field hockey, base ball, track and field events, tennis and archery, and during the winter months basketball and volley ball in the gymnasium. Women making the required number of points are granted Crimson "W's" and heavy white sweaters.

ORTHOPEDIC CLASS

In the orthopedic classes emphasis is placed on the correction of individual defects, such as, incorrect posture, fallen arches, and the development of that part of the body which is especially frail. Each individual pursues her special exercises under personal supervision of the instructor.

Division of General College Extension

The Division of General College Extension offers the intellectual and social service of the College to ambitious men and women of the state who are unable to attend classes on the campus. Their needs are met in four ways: through correspondence courses, extension classes, college extension lectures, musical and literary recitals, and educational motion pictures.

Instruction by correspondence is given in nearly every field of college study, and the credits earned in the correspondence course may be applied toward a college degree. This especially benfits the student who must leave college for a semester or two.

The extension classes bring the college and the community in direct contact. Wherever a group of fifteen or twenty men and women desire a class in a particular subject the Division sends a member of the faculty to conduct the work.

College extension lectures on numerous topics, and musical and literary recitals are made available for community gatherings through the Division of General College Extension.

Educational films and stereopticon slides are distributed among the schools, churches, community centers, farm bureaus, Y. M. C. A.'s and other organizations throughout Washington. This service aids greatly in popular instruction concerning industrial processes, scientific experiments and demonstrations, travel, and social welfare work.

The Vocational School

THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL, known as the Department of Elementary Science, is not a high school, nor a preparatory school, but a school designed and organized to give courses from four and one-half months in length to three years. Students completing a three-year course may enter a similar course in college the same as a graduate from a four-year accredited high school.

Young persons from rural communities out of reach of a high school, persons too mature to attend high school, who realize the need of further education to fit them for the occupation which they wish to pursue, may profitably invest from one semester to three years in any one of the following lines of work: agriculture, horticulture, dairying, poultry, machine shop, automobile mechanics, cabinet making, printing, bookkeeping, stenography, dressmaking and millinery, cooking and household management.

No. 1 These young men spend half of each school day in the shop.

No. 2 The product of this class in dairy manufacturing is sold on the market.

No. 3 Students getting acquainted with a tractor by using it.

No. 4 These girls become good stenographers with one year of training.

The Military Department of the State College of Washington consists of a Regular Army detachment and three units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps; namely, Infantry, Engineer and Junior. The R. O. T. C. is the visible source from which the nation must draw the vast number of trained Junior officers who must lead its forces in the event of a great war. It is one of the most important elements in our scheme of national defense. The R. O. T. C. units at an educational institution are of national importance and their success and efficiency are matters of national concern.

But in addition to its importance to our national defense, the courses offered by the Military Department, including discipline and training in the direct and practicable methods of accomplishing results characteristic of military procedure, are of the greatest benefit to the students in their future careers in civil life. The courses offered will be found most thorough, practical and complete. The courses cover a period of four years, the training during the second two years being elective on the part of the student.

The student who completes one year of this course will have learned those things which a prospective enlisted man should know and which also should be the first things taught to the prospective non-commissioned officer. If he completes two years of the course, he will have received the training that a non-commissioned officer should have, or which should be the groundwork in the training of an officer. Finally, if he completes all four years, he will have been taught the things that a Junior officer should know and which should be the groundwork in the training of an officer of any rank. The course is, thus, logically progressive.

SECOND BATTALION INFANTRY

THIRD BATTALION ENGINEERS

The War Department keeps itself posted on the progress of the training of educational institutions by a program of frequent inspections. During the latter part of each academic year, the War Department sends a board of officers from Washington, D. C. who inspect a certain number of educational institutions that have been recommended for inspection to determine their eligibility to be rated as a "Distinguished College" in military science. The State College of Washington won this rating in 1916 and again in 1922.

By being rated as a "Distinguished College," five per cent of the graduates of the Military Department are given an opportunity to apply for a commission as a second lieutenant in the Regular Army without examination other than physical.

The cadets, at the State College of Washington, are organized into a regiment, consisting of two battalions of Infantry and one battalion of Engineers. The practical training is conducted under the leadership of cadet officers who are members of the Junior and Senior classes in college.

Other activities of the Military Department consist of a Sponsor's Club reception, the annual Military Ball, rifle and pistol marksmanship competitions with other institutions and summer camp for further practical training.

"The Mighty Seniors"

It's been four years since that lusty class of 1923 first participated in the mysteries of enrollment. Green caps were of just as verdant a hue then as they are now and we wore them with just as much pride as the frosh of 1926. Our Sophomore year was still more successful than the first, and our Junior and Senior years have followed with their share of work and play on the campus. We've played, and we've played hard, but we've worked just as thoroughly as we have played. Never was any task or responsibility too great but the class of '23 was willing to do her utmost for her Alma Mater.

Special trains, food enough for an army, baseball, races, beauty contests, official announcer, "Barnum" Sandberg and a dance at Colfax all helped to make our Senior Sneak worth the four years we have spent to be able to have one day off. From the time the train pulled out with one hundred eighty-seven seniors singing lustily, "Hail, hail, the gang's all here" until our final "Pep Rally" on fraternity corner, every minute of the time was filled with something to do. All day votes were cast for the most beautiful person in the class of '23 and during final chow the class was proud to hear that their president, Earl Foster, had won the bottle of "genuine" herpicide offered.

The dance that evening was a tag affair. Joy was unconfined until the train pulled out for Pullman at nine-thirty. At the depot in Pullman a four column parade was formed. and with torch lights, singing and yelling the class marched up the streets. The President soon called out good-night, for he had to get back to put on another application of Herpicide, and everyone else went home, either to sleep or to be locked out. The next morning found many Seniors "sleeping in"—but that is another story.

Soon the members of the class will have left the campus, but we would like to feel that we have left some mark whereby the oncoming classes may know and remember us of 1923. As a Memorial we are placing in the hands of the Student Book Store twelve hundred and fifty dollars, which is to be met with a like sum by the present Alumnae Association. This money is to be invested in caps and gowns, which in turn are to be rented to the seniors at a sum which will just cover the handling of the outfits and will bring in a large enough income every year for a scholarship to be known as the "1923 Fellowship." The Fellowship is to be awarded annually to some student of the State College.

Winter Sports

The rolling hills of the Palouse Country and the zero weather combine to make the winter months the season of out-door sports. Practically every winter sport has its place and the snowy season is a time of increased activities and good times.

Coasting is perhaps the most popular of all the winter sports. Campus Avenue, a long winding street bordering the campus, is roped off every night from seven to twelve for the "bobs." Guards are placed at every corner and the big curves are boarded and banked in a way so that accidents are very rare and speed is kept at a maximum. There is probably no better coasting course within miles.

Skiing is also an important sport. The hill behind Van Doren Hall makes a good ski course and by no means a slow one. Round Top is another popular ski course. There is ample opportunity for every student, new comers and all, to learn to ski if he wants to.

"Silver Lake," the pride of Pullman, is large enough so that those who prefer ice skating to other winter activities can use their time to good advantage there.

All in all, the winter is a gay and lively season.

"We Fight—, Who for—, 1924"

Facing a year full of big things to be accomplished such as the publication of the Chinook of '24 and the Junior Prom, the class of '24 began work at their first meeting. They made their first innovation by deciding to have their Chinook pictures taken in school or afternoon dress instead of in the traditional evening gown and full dress.

The Pre-Prom-Pep-Parade was given at the Armory, March the third, for the purpose of raising money for the Prom, which the class gave a few weeks later as a Mandarin Ball. The walls of the gymnasium were covered with lovely blossoms and Japanese lanterns helped to increase the Oriental effect. An edict declaring that Freshmen girls would not be allowed to attend the Prom was issued by the Juniors for the first time. Heretofore only Freshman men have been barred.

The Juniors were left in charge of campus affairs when the Seniors took their sneak late in April. Their responsibilities were carried with due dignity and solemnity and a great deal of important business was effectively dispatched at a special meeting of the Associated Students, which the Juniors attended dressed in their caps and gowns. The meeting was conducted by President Hickey, assisted by Secretary Emma Frances Howard.

Plans were made for the semester class party to be held as a picnic or some other form of outdoor entertainment rather than the usual "hard time" no date affair held by most of the classes.

The women of the class of '24 have been doing their share in upholding the class honor in athletics. To start the year well, they annexed the inter-class championship in hockey, and then turned their hopes toward basket ball honors. These were gained with little trouble and two team members, Emma Abbott and Eileen Cummins, were placed on the honor-team at the end of the season.

The Indoor Baseball team also won the championship in a closely contested game with the Seniors, ending in a 25-26 score.

On the whole the class has been busy this year, and has accomplished the few big things it set out to do, rather than spending its time on a large number of smaller affairs.

HOBO HOP

THE "HOBO HOP"

The "Hobo Tramp" dance of the Sophomore class was held at the Armory Friday, November 10. Decorations were not of the customary autumn foliage, but rather of old clothes lines draped with campus relics, while the punch bowl was replaced by the old oaken bucket. The costumes worn were in keeping with the decorations.

VIGILANCE ACTIVITIES

THE VIGILANCE COMMITTEE IN ACTION

Woe to the frosh who attempts to fuss on the campus or has a habit of leaving his green cap at home! The Sophomore Vigilance Committee is ever on the job, looking for offenders of the freshman rules.

A CAMPUS DAY ACHIEVEMENT

The bon-fire which was built by the class of '25 on Campus Day 1922 was one of the largest in the history of the school. In the evening a touching ceremony, "the burial of the green," was conducted and the class cast their freshman garb into the towering flames.

"Who Mix—, We Mix—, 1926!"

"FIGHT 'EM, FIGHT 'EM FROSH"

When September 19, 1922 found seven hundred and twenty huskies predestined to be wearers of the green on the W. S. C. campus the class of 1926 was assembled. Two days of registration followed, and then a sentence to a semester of hard work.

The newcomers had been in school hardly a day when they began to notice that the Sophs were meeting in back of Wilson Hall. Nine o'clock that night found the yearlings ready for their hazers and before very long at least five sophomores had met their fate in the oozy depths of Lake de Puddle. The first contest of the year ended in a victory for the Frosh.

Classes met and the class of '26 was initiated into that very serious business of student work. Then came the first class meeting and Bill Weingarten was appointed committee chairman for the Frosh-Soph Supremacy Contest. His warriors turned out on Rogers field where a battle with the second year men was staged all one Saturday afternoon. Through the sack race, pillow fighting on the pole suspended from the ground, obstacle race, sack fight and the tug of war over Lake de Puddle the Frosh showed their competitors a good time.

The first class election resulted in Dick Smith being chosen as president, Gerhard Ahnquist, vice president; Sally Jo Walker, secretary; Catharyn McCurdy, treasurer.

The crimson and white numerals "26" took their place on the stack September the twenty-seventh. Green caps in all their glory appeared a few days later and the Frosh men began to suffer the vigil of the Vigilance Committee, whose special duty was to punish Freshmen for numerous sins such as fussing on the campus, entering the wrong chapel door, and neglecting to wear their green caps.

A truce was called between the two classes at the Frosh-Soph mix, held at the Armory for the purpose of establishing more friendly relations. The first exclusively Frosh dance was held November the eighteenth.

Green caps being a little too scanty for winter wear the Frosh were allowed to lay them away after Thanksgiving.

The second Frosh dance was held shortly after Christmas vacation. The armory was cleverly decorated with both crimson and gray numerals at both ends of the hall. Programs consisted of harmless green paper paddles. Vocal music was furnished by the Freshman Quartet, Frank Eaton, Winfield Herman, Lawrence Berg and Oliver Humes.

The class came to its most serious crisis at the end of the first semester; this was passed most successfully after a week of diligent cramming.

The second semester Gerhard Ahnquist was elected class president; Virgil Bergh, vice president; Charlotte Mathews, secretary and Erna Nelson, treasurer.

The Frosh women inaugurated "the sharing of the green" by putting on green wristlets when the men again donned their green caps on St. Patrick's Day. With Campus Day came the last important event of the year. Frosh men threw their caps in the traditional bonfire, while the women carefully treasured their little ribbons to remind them of the eventful year that brought into being the Class of 1926.

"Prep Pep"

A SCENE FROM MATER

The preps began the school year looking forward to a variety of activities in which to engage. From the first they began devoting most of their time to literary and social activities.

Each semester a first prize of $10.00 and a second prize of $5.00 is awarded to the winners of the "Declamation Contest." The best speech of the first semester was given by Mr. T. C. Anderson on "Spanish Americanism" while Miss Bernice Carmichael, speaking on "Liberty and Happiness," was awarded the second prize. A great deal of work was done in a well organized Literary Society.

The big social affair in the lives of the "Preps" is the annual May Romp, an all college informal, carrying out novel and interesting decorations in spring colors, with favors suitable for the occasion. Besides this the preps fostered other functions this year, including another seasonal hop.

MATER

Directed by Miss Hulda Schweer

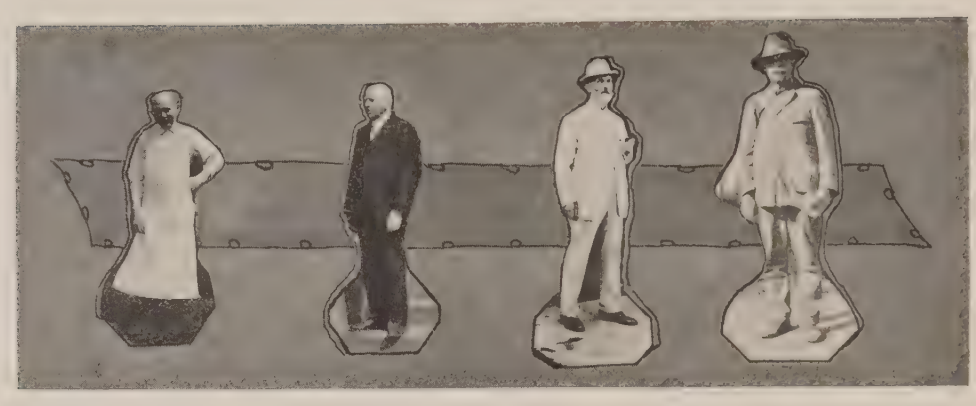
The play "Mater" by Percy McKaye, effectively and carefully coached by Miss Hulda Schweer, was the outstanding feature of the department activities this year.

The comedy hinged around a novel philosophy "The Best of Love is Laughter," while the main dramatic struggle was between "Mater," the mother who never lost the sunny soul of childhood, and her son and daughter, who have undergone with grim solemnity the tragic process of growing up.

Lillian Sly was excellently adapted to her part in the title role of "Mater." Her song, composed by Professor Alfred Meyer of the Musical Department, was one of the attractive features. The acting of Thomas Bolles, as Arthur Cullen, was mature and he received much praise, while Earle Howland as Mater's son and Beulah McDonald, as her daughter were equally successful and not once during the entire comedy did either slip from their characters. Thorstein Guldjord, as Rudolph Verbeck, the daughter's true lover, was credited with much cleverness.

Old Timers

YOU SHOULD KNOW



Reynolds Shedd Chapman Latta

LANCELOT REYNOLDS

Mr. Reynolds was born in Dublin, Ireland. He came to the United States in 1889. In 1911 he came to Pullman where he took up his position as book-binder and has been here ever since.

Mr. Reynolds is very popular with the students and at all times they are "visitors" at his window. He has traveled a great deal and is always ready for a "gab fest." He expects to remain here, but as he puts it, " You can never tell what an Irishman will do."

PROFESSOR SOLON SHEDD

Professor Shedd came here in 1896 and was, at that time the only instructor in geology. "In those days," he said, "I used to have a hard time getting together a class of half-a-dozen students and now I have a hard time keeping the classes under the hundred mark." Professor Shedd is head of the Department of Geology.

MR. M. I. CHAPMAN

Mr. Chapman came to Pullman in 1891 and was at that time connected with the First National Bank. He is a genial Englishman and many students enjoy the hospitality of his home.

MR. W. H. LATTA

"Dad" Latta, Pullman's veteran mail carrier, came here in 1902. With the exception of seven weeks, Mr. Latta has carried mail on the same route for fifteen years, and since that route includes many of the fraternity houses he has made the acquaintance of a great many college students.

VICE-PRESIDENT O. L. WALLER

"Dad" Waller came to Pullman in 1893. At that time "W. A. C." had very few "Ag." students, most of the students being enrolled in Engineering. Professor Waller said that when he rode his bicycle to school in the mornings there was nothing to scare but a few cows and chickens.

MR. GEORGE GRIMES

Mr. Grimes came to Pullman as a student in 1892. He last attended the college in 1897. Since then he has been Superintendent of Buildings. When he started work he had six students working for him. Now he has ten men, two women, and forty-two student assistants.

The above mentioned are only a few of the real Old Timers about Pullman. They are all very interesting to know and it is a privilege for the students to be able to make their acquaintances.

COUGAR ATHLETICS

Ford Dunton, Captain
FOOTBALL

The Coaching Staff

Applequist Welch Bohler Jenne

J. FRED BOHLER

Director of Athletics and Physical Education.

"Doc" came to the State College in 1908 from the University of Nebraska to take charge of Basketball and gymnasium work. During his stay at W. S. C. he has built up an enviable reputation for fair play and square dealing, and has done much to purge college athletics on the Pacific Coast of objectionable and harmful features.

GUSTAVUS WELCH

Football Coach

"Gus" Welch, ex-Carlisle star quarterback, took charge of football at W. S. C. in the fall of 1920. Mr. Welch, like "Doc," believes in clean sport. On his retirement last year the Spokesman-Review said: "'Gus' Welch is the whitest sportsman who ever trod a Northwest Gridiron."

HARRY APPLEQUIST

Assisitant Football Coach

"Hack" graduated from W. S. C. in 1916, playing his last year of College football on "Bill" Dietz's championship 1915 team. After taking a whirl at mining, ranching, and the Army, Harry returned to the State College as assistant football coach. He has charge of the linemen. He is also baseball coach.

ELDON JENNE

Coach of Frosh Football, Basketball and Track

Eldon graduated from W. S. C. in 1921, making an enviable record in scholarship as well as athletics. He holds the pole vault record in both the Pacific and Northwest Conferences, and was a member of the champion American team in the last Olympic meet.

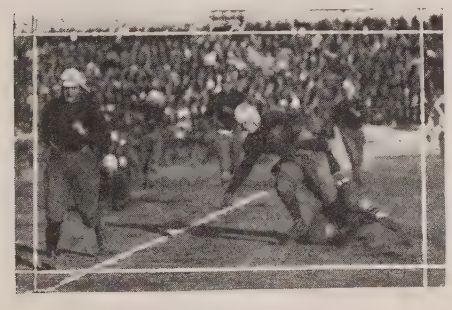
ZAEPFEL AROUND END—U. OF W. GAME

GONZAGA

The Cougars dedicated the new stadium of Gonzaga University at Spokane on October fourteenth by a 10 to 7 victory over the strongest team which has ever represented Gonzaga. The first touchdown was made by the State College in the first four minutes of play, but the score was tied 7-7 at the end of the first half. Although the ball was in the Bulldogs' territory most of the second half, the Cougars were unable to cross the goal line with a running attack. However, to the ardent W. S. C. fans and rooters in the grandstand, the outcome of the game was never in doubt, and Halfback Hickey justified the confidence of his admirers by sending a well-directed place kick over the cross-bar from the 41-yard line for the winning three points. In this game several of the W. S. C. squad were playing in positions they had never played before. This fact, and the lack of college football experience of others, showed up the Cougar attack

IDAHO

With the score 9 to 3 against them at the end of the first half, on October the twenty-first, the State College staged a spectacular come-back and defeated the University of Idaho 18 to 9 on their field at Moscow. Coach Welch, looking ahead to the Washington game, had several substitutes in his lineup most of the first half, when Idaho scored a field goal and a touchdown. However, when Hickey and other veterans got into the game there was a noticeable difference. Bray smashed through the center time after time until he carried the ball over for a touchdown. Hickey intercepted an Idaho forward pass and raced thirty yards through the Idaho team for another touchdown. After that the final outcome was never in doubt, and the Cougars were marching toward another touchdown when the timekeeper's gun stopped the game.



A PRETTY TACKLE—GONZAGA GAME

Between the halves of the Idaho-W. S. C. game the rooting sections of the two

ROY SANDBERG (3)—"Sandy"

Utility man. "Sandy" has played halfback and quarter back, and in his last year was shifted to end position. He is noted for his sure tackling and his vicious body blocking.

WALLACE McKAY (3)—"Bud"

End and guard. "Bud" was shifted from guard, at which position he won the Pacific Coast honors the year before, to end. Severe injuries throughout the season prevented "Bud" from establishing an enviable reputation as a fast and shifty end.

ERNEST DURRWACHTER (2)—"Butch"

Guard. A fast, aggressive lineman on offense, and a heady player on defense. "Butch," in spite of injuries, repeated his enviable record of the year before as a first-class lineman.

ALBERT DAVIS (3)—"Buck"

Guard. In spite of an injured knee, "Buck" made the team and gave the opposing linemen a lot to worry about. Getting the man before he got past the line of scrimmage was Buck's forte.

VERNARD HICKEY (2)—"Verne"

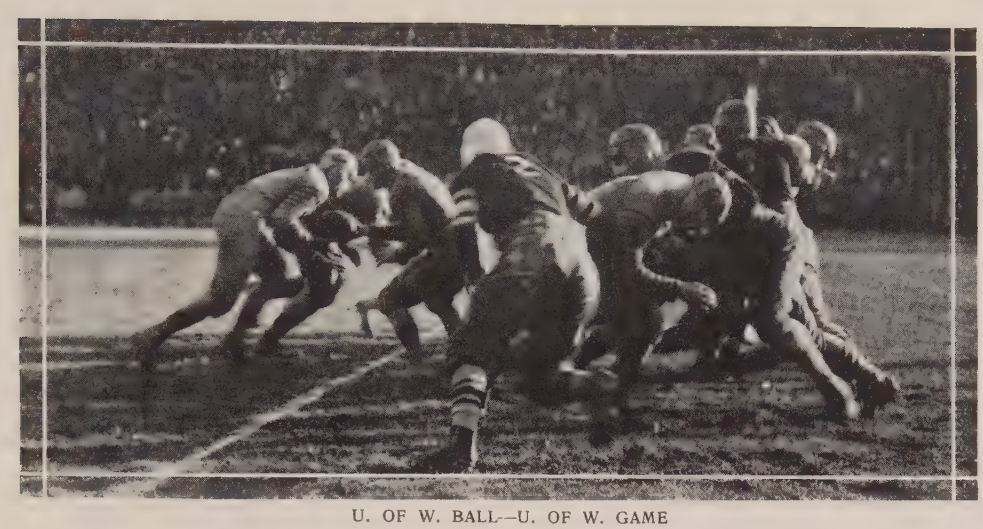
Captain-elect. One of the shiftiest halfbacks in the Coast Conference, who thrills the stands with his long runs through a broken field. Although closely watched by opposing teams, he got away for long gains through the line and around the ends. Verne Hickey would be an asset to any team.



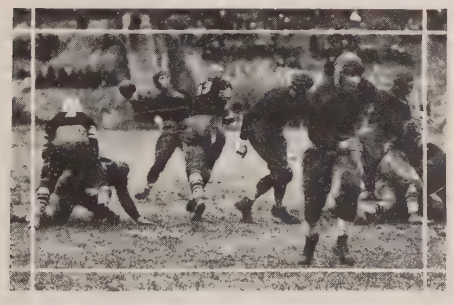
U. OF W. BALL—U. OF W. GAME

schools participated in a rooting contest sponsored by the Harvard Club of Spokane. Idaho, for the third successive time won the contest, and permanent possession of the Harvard Club Trophy.

U. OF W.

Before the largest crowd ever assembled to view an athletic contest on Rogers Field in Pullman, the State College tasted the bitter pill of a 16 to 13 defeat, administered by the University of Washington on the annual Homecoming Day, October the twenty-eighth. What made the drubbing more aggravating was the fact that throughout most of the game the Cougars seemed to have outplayed their opponents. W. S. C. started a march down the field for a touchdown at the start of the game, only to lose the ball in the shadow of the goal posts on a bad pass. The Huskies scored first with a field goal, the result of a mixup of the Cougar signals which allowed the ball to roll beyond the Cougar backfield. At the end of the first half the score was 3 to 0 in favor of the Huskies.

In the second half the State College scored two touchdowns, one from straight football, and the other when "Pete" Kramer scooped up a dropped punt and raced over the Huskies' goal line. With the score 13 to 3 it looked as though the Cougars "had the game on ice," but the Huskies of Seattle, with a wonderful passing game, scored two touchdowns and sent the hopes of the State College rooters to the very nadir of despair. The Cougars tried hard to recover their former lead, but their desperate efforts were unavailing. The Varsity and the incoming substitutes did their best, but Lady Luck did not smile on our forward-passing game. It was a hard game for either team to have lost, and the "breaks of luck" decided the issue.



IDAHO'S PASS—U. OF I.

CALIFORNIA

The California game came one week after the defeat by the University of Washington. The coaches had but three days

JOHN ZAEPFEL (2)—"Johnny"

Halfback and safety man. "Johnny" is a speedy back and shifty on his feet. He catches punts with deadly accuracy, and, no matter how hard he is hit, does not signal for a fair catch.

LEO SHANNON (1)—"Boots"

Tackle. Started the season at end, but was shifted to the tackle position, where he gave a creditable account of himself. "Boots" is very fast on his feet and a heavy, powerful man. With a year's collegiate experience behind him, great things are expected of the fullback and captain of the 1921 Frosh team.

STANLEY BRAY (1)—"Stun"

Fullback. "Stun" hits the line hard, and keeps right on. On defense he is a tower of strength in backing up the line on running plays or in breaking up forward passes.

LINCOLN MEEKER (2)—"Lin"

Guard and tackle. A steady, consistent player, who improved his work with each game. Fast and aggressive on offense or defense.

ANTONE PURCELL (1)—"Tony"

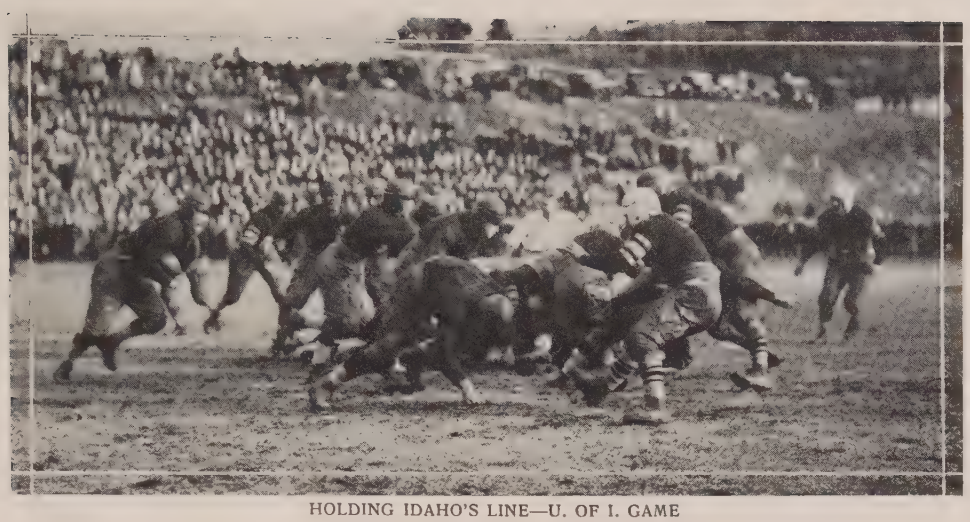
Guard. Another graduate of the Frosh team who made his "W" this year. "Tony" opens big holes in the opposing line with his charging and body blocking.



HOLDING IDAHO'S LINE—U. OF I. GAME

of practice in which to groom their young and comparatively green team for the big game with the then apparent champions of the Pacific coast. On the long trip to Berkeley the team was delayed several hours by a wreck, and it was a tired and nervous team which faced the best squad California has ever had. Although the Cougars held the Bears several times in the shadow of the goal posts, the wonderful material which represented California chalked up a score of 61 to 0. A large number of substitutions were made by both teams, nineteen by California and twelve by Washington State.

OREGON

With but three days of practice after the California game, the Cougars journeyed to Eugene to play the University of Oregon on Armistice Day, November the eleventh. W. S. C. outplayed Oregon the first quarter and part of the second, but a questionable decision on a punt gave Oregon the ball in our territory. This "break" affected the Cougar morale, and Oregon won, 13 to 0.

O. A. C.

On November the twenty-third the Cougars took another long trip, playing the Oregon Aggies at Portland and the University of Southern California at Pasadena. The heavy O. A. C. team proved too much for W. S. C. and the Beavers won, 16 to 0. Three place kicks and one touchdown, the latter made in the last quarter, accounted for O. A. C.'s tallies. The contest was marked by frequent penalties and costly fumbles. The Cougars tried to pull the game out of the fire in the last quarter, but O. A. C. stopped the forward passing on her twenty-seven yard line.

"THIRD DOWN"—GONZAGA

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The Cougars started off with a rush in their Thanksgiving game with U. S. C. at Pasadena, Hickey scoring a field goal from the forty-three yard line early in the first quarter. But the Trojans,

LANCHE CROW (1)—"Fat"

Center. A member of the 1920 frosh team. After staying away from football one season, Lanche got back into the moleskins and alternated with Joe Burks at the snapper-back position.

HAROLD COOK (1)—"Cookie"

Utility man. "Cookie" played half, end and quarterback last year. He is as aggressive as he is versatile, and at snatching forward passes out of the air, in spite of his short stature, he is a wonder.

ELMER ALEXANDER (1)—"Alex"

Halfback. He is light, but full of fight. A hard body blocker on interference and a good tackler on defense.

JOSEPH BURKS (1)—"Joe"

Center. Small and rather light for collegiate football, "Joe" made up in fight and grit what he lacked in weight and stature. Time after time he stopped plays through center before they reached the line of scrimmage. On offense his passing was always accurate.

HOWARD SLATER (1)—"Duke"

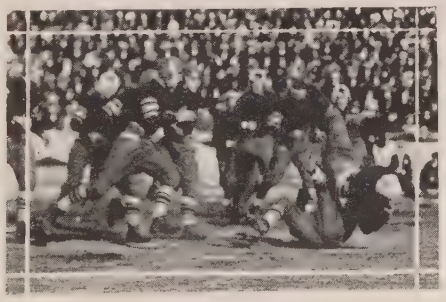
Fullback. With his powerful build and hard hitting ability, "Duke" is an asset in backing up the line. Now that he has had a year of collegiate experience, great things are expected of him in football the next two years.

FIRST TOUCHDOWN—U. OF W.

playing wonderful football, scored forty-one points to the three by the Cougars. However, in the fourth quarter the W. S. C. team kept the ball in their opponents' territory, but lacked the "punch" to put the ball over. In this game Captain Dunton, and Sandberg, Meeker and Durrwachter, donned the moleskins for W. S. C. for the last time.

Altogether, the season was a hard one for the Cougars, all of the games except the University of Washington and the University of Idaho being played away from home. Twice during the season the team journeyed to California where, after the long, hard trip, they were defeated. On the second trip south the train was delayed and when the men finally arrived it was a matter of a few hours from the time they got off the train until they were lined up and ready for the opening whistle. Rest periods at home were short and the many days spent on the train told on the men.

Although they were defeated several times during the season they never once gave up in a game and regardless of the score that stared them in the face, the final effort was never finished until the timer's gun closed the game.



"SLIM PICKIN'S"

PETER KRAMER (1)—"Pete"

End. "Pete" played guard on the Frosh team, but made his "W" playing end. He is a good receiver of forward passes, and on defense a splendid tackler.

CECIL WETZEL (1)—"Hip"

Guard and tackle. "Hip" returned to W. S. C. after staying out of school a year. He is a heavy and powerful man, and with his year of collegiate experience will be an asset to the team next year.

HUGH WHEELER (1)—"Hugh"

Fullback. Although he did not go out for freshman football, Hugh turned out for the 'varsity and made his letter this year. He is a fast, heavy and powerful line plunger.

OLIVER TRYGGVI (1)—"Ole"

End. "Ole" was a halfback on last year's Frosh team, but was shifted to end. He is fast going down under punts and a sure tackler and body blocker.

JACK DAVIS (1)—"Jack"

Quarterback. "Jack graduated from last year's Frosh team to run the 'varsity. He is cool and heady, and with a year's collegiate experience in field generalship, should do even better than he did the past year.

This Season—and Next

LOOKING back, we see a season that, from the standpoint of games won, might not be termed altogether successful. Out of seven games played, five were lost, but on the other hand, out of seven games played, six were played away from home. The number of games lost tells only half of the story of the season. The other half is told by the real spirit of the men, by the way they worked during their short periods of training and the way in which they finished each game, regardless of whether or not the score was in their favor. In this respect the season was decidedly successful and one of which we may well be proud.

In the season just past, five men played their last games for the State College. Captain Ford Dunton wound up his college football career by playing a superior game at tackle and was rewarded by being chosen on the Mythical All-Coast Eleven by a vote of the coaches of the conference teams. Roy Sandberg played his last game at end, a position entirely new to him, but which he filled in a manner which showed his real football ability and his willingness to fill what might otherwise have been a disastrous breach. Wallace McKay, former All-Coast guard, was shifted at the beginning of the season to fill an end position. Although he played a good game at end, a bad ankle caused him to be returned to the guard position where he ended the season in true McKay style. His being shifted to a new position, along with an injured ankle, kept him from being chosen on the All-Coast team. Buck Davis was the real hard luck player. Three times Buck won a letter in football in the face of difficulties as great as any football player ever experiences. An injured knee received in his first year of varsity ball placed difficulties in the way which remained through all his seasons of competition. Butch Durrwachter has only played two years of varsity football but probably will be unable to play next fall as a result of the recent illness which has kept him out of school.

The places left vacant by these men will be hard to fill but there will be a wealth of material from last year's Super-varsity and Frosh teams. Hjertoos, Shelby, Martin, Marker, Underwood, Baxter, Henry and many others are among those who are expected to do big things in filling out the varsity eleven.

THE COUGAR ELEVEN

LOOKING FORWARD—COACH EXENDINE

Mr. Exendine is a graduate of the Carlisle Indian School, attending that institution when "Pop" Warner was coach. He is a former All-American end, and one of the leading exponents of the famous Warner system of football. He comes to Washington State directly from Georgetown University, where he has coached for nine successful years, meeting, during that time, such teams as Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth, Penn State, Army, Navy, Colgate, Notre Dame, and a host of other prominent eastern schools.

Filling the vacancy left by "Gus" Welch was no small undertaking and "Doc" Bohler made a careful study of eastern coaches before selecting Mr. Exendine. We're behind Exendine a hundred per cent and not without reason do we look forward to big things next year.

Freshman Football

THE FROSH TURNOUT

The Frosh Football turnout last fall was one of the largest the State College has ever had and several large cuts were necessary before a final squad was selected. The number of men making football numerals this year was comparatively large and material from this year's Frosh will be a big factor in making up next year's Varsity.

Frosh Football

The Frosh had an exceptionally good football team this year, winning three out of the four games that they played.

The first game was with Cheney Normal and was an easy victory for the W. S. C. men, who won by an 80 to 0 score.

The next game was with the Montana Frosh at Missoula. Again they won an easy victory, running up a 40 to 0 score on the Montana men on their own field.

The University of Washington Freshmen were the next on the list. The game was played on the U. of W. field and the Cougar yearlings took the big end of a 29-0 score.

The single game the W. S. C. babes lost was with the Idaho Frosh on the home field, Idaho winning by a 20-7 score. Coach Jenne was well pleased with the men and a number of excellent varsity prospects were uncovered in this year's men.

The men who won their numerals are:

Art. Byers
Stanley Young
Clif. Marker
Brick Johnson
Bill Kramer
John Davis
Curry Mitchell
Eric Waldorf
Ernie Henry
Harold Bervin
Milton Martin
John Glann
Owen Adair

BASKETBALL

Basketball

Changing from a cellar candidate to a championship contender in one week's time, W. S. C.'s basketball team finished the 1922-1923 season tied for second place in the northern division of the Pacific Coast Conference. Fourteen wins out of twenty-two games speaks well for "Doc" Bohler's squad.

Starting the season on January twelfth and thirteenth, with a two-game series with Gonzaga on the home court, the Cougars got away to a favorable start by winning both contests by lopsided scores. On January the fifteenth and sixteenth they repeated the performance, this time with Montana as the victim.

On January nineteenth W. S. C. lost by a two-point margin to Gonzaga at Spokane. However, Doc's men took revenge on the Bulldogs the next night, winning easily. The following week-end W. S. C. beat the Coast Conference Championship team, the Idaho Vandals, on the home court, but lost the second game on the Idaho court.

On the following Thursday the squad left on their trip to the coast, playing the U. of W., Multnomah Athletic Club of Portland, U. of Oregon, O. A. C., Willamette and Whitman. On this tour they won from Multnomah, Oregon and Willamette, but lost close contests to U. of W., O. A. C. and Whitman.

In the game with the U. of W. Huskies on the home floor, on February twelfth, the Cougars lost a heart-breaking contest by a score of 31 to 29. After disposing of Willamette in neat fashion, the Cougars squared themselves for the invasion of O. A. C. and Oregon into Palouse territory.

On the evening of February nineteenth was played the best game of the local season. The low score of 19 to 16 indicates the hard but clean battle the O. A. C. Beavers put up before they were finally subdued. Two days later the Cougars swamped the Oregon team 40 to 25.

The hard pace, however, had taken its toll of the rather light Cougar squad. There was a noticeable let-up in the aggressive playing of the previous games, and W. S. C. lost two games to Idaho on February twenty-third and twenty-fourth. A game was also dropped at Whitman. The Cougars closed the season by journeying to Missoula and beating Montana on March the first and second.

Friel

Loomis

Herrington

Burke

BRYAN FRIEL—"Jack"

Jack won his third consecutive service stripe on his sweater this year and incidentally was given a forward berth on the mythical all-coast second team by "Doc" Bohler.

CLARENCE LOOMIS—"Spud"

Doc's "old reliable" when it came to a guard of sterling worth both on defense and offense. Another three-year letter man in the cage sport.

LOWELL SCHROEDER—"Pullman"

When it came to combining aggressive guarding with ability to gather points, "Pullman" was there with a vim. Will be back next year to captain the team.

VICTOR HERRINGTON—"Vic"

Coach Bohler will lose one of his most valuable guards when Vic graduates this spring. Earned his second letter this year

ERNEST BURKE—"Ernie"

The third man on the squad to win his blanket this year. Ernie's long shots from the center of the floor were the despair of his opponents and the joy of the co-eds in the front row.

CARL McCARTHY—"Mac"

Mac just missed out on his letter last year, but came through with the fight for his sweater this year. Will be the only letterman back for center next season.

BYRAN REESE—"Red"

Reese and Schroeder were as an efficient pair of guards as could be found in the Conference. "Red" will be back next year as Schroeder's running mate.

JOE CHANDLER—"Sparkplug"

Another Sophomore who proved himself an efficient forward. Will make himself a valuable addition to the squad in the next two years.

WALLACE KELSO—"Wallie"

A star on last year's frosh team, Wallie stepped out and won himself a forward position on the varsity in his first year of conference competition.

WALDO ROBERTS—"Jap"

Lack of size in Jap's case was more than made up for by pure fight and an uncanny ability to dribble the ball down the floor through his opponents.

OUT ON THIRD

As the baseball season rolled around last spring, prospects for a formidable aggregation of willow-wielders looked good. Eight letter men reported for practice, along with a wealth of new material from the Frosh team of the year before.

There was just one thing that worried Coach Barber, and that was the fact that Old Sol got his dates mixed up and didn't show up until the training season was over, forcing the coach to pick and groom his team in two short weeks.

The conference championship was not settled until May the twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh, when the Cougars lost two games to the University of Washington at Seattle. W. S. C., however, took second place in the conference with a percentage of .667.

The season opened with a 13 to 9 win over Idaho on April the twenty-first. The Cougars took the next four games from Idaho, Oregon and O. A. C., but dropped two to O. A. C. and Idaho. This made their standing five won and two lost, while the fast U. of W. team had yet to lose a contest.

At this stage of the race, the Cougars took a brace and won the next eight games, two from Oregon, two from O. A. C., two from Whitman, one from Idaho and one from the Huskies. This was the only win they registered over the Seattle aggregation. The U. of W. was the victor in the next three contests.

The Cougars finished the season by beating Whitman twice at Walla Walla on May twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth. Throughout the season they scored 166 tallies to their opponents 118.

MICHAEL MORAN—"Mike"

Mike was always on deck when a heavy hitter was needed. One of the most feared batters in the conference. Third year on the team.

FRANK SKADAN—"Curly"

One of the best of the pitching staff. Curly was called upon to pull the Cougars out of a tight hole more than once.

HAROLD HANLEY—"Bones"

Handled first base like a veteran. A dependable hitter who delivered the goods whenever needed.

JOHN FRIEL—"Jack"

A first string pitcher who was one of the best the college has had for years. More than once Jack successfully stood between us and defeat. Has one more year to play.

EARL FOSTER—"Frog"

Held down the left field position for the second time in big league style. One of W. S. C.'s most dependable players.

STANLEY BRAY—"Stan"

Worked behind the bat like a veteran. Possessed a bullet like throw to second, and a good man to have at bat in a pinch.

J. ROUSE—"Toddles"

Tod rounded out his second year at second. Was able to clout the ball when a hit meant a run.

ARCHIE RULEY

Another veteran pitcher from the championship team of 1921. Ruley's main stock in trade was his superb control combined with speed.

GEORGE BENEKE—"Benny"

The home-run artist of the squad. A lean two-bagger was a mere trifle in Benny's career. Has two more years to play.

JOHN ZAEPFEL—"Johnny"

Starred on the Frosh team before graduating to the ranks of the varsity. Played shortstop in a creditable manner.

HAROLD COOK—"Cookie"

The peppiest player on the squad. Combined an airtight style of ball with an inimitable line of chatter at third. Made good as a pitcher and hit well during last half of the season.

WALDO ROBERTS—"Jap"

Alternated with Cook at third base. Won a regular place on the lineup by his spectacular work with the bat.

VARSITY BASEBALL SQUAD

Freshman Baseball 1922

THE FROSH SQUAD

The Freshman baseball team, under the tutelage of "Chick" Rockey, had a very successful season last spring. They won five games and lost one, finishing the season with a percentage of .833.

Their first contest was with Cheney Normal at Pullman on May fifth. Although they had only a couple of weeks practice, they managed to swamp Cheney, 20-4. The following week they journeyed to Spokane, where they defeated Gonzaga High, 7-2, and again won from Cheney, 24-9.

On May nineteenth the Frosh won their fourth straight victory when they defeated Whitworth at Pullman, 9-0. The following day they met their first and only defeat at the hands of Lewis and Clark High School by the close score of 10-12. They finished the season by winning from Gonzaga High again at Pullman, 9-4. During the season the yearlings scored 79 runs, as against 31 for their opponents.

The lineup was as follows: Bohlke and Highton, pitchers; Washburn and Wisner, catchers; Jensen, first base; Corcoran, second base; Richards, third base; Searles, short stop; Wilkerson, left field; Mitchell, center field and Tryggvi, right field.

Frank Rowlee, Captain
TRACK

Track 1922

W. S. C. took part in three dual meets on the cinder path last spring, winning one and losing two. The Cougars also took part in the Coast Conference meet, held at Seattle on May 27.

The 1922 track squad made its debut in the dual meet with Idaho, which was held on Rogers Field on May sixth. Although the inclement weather had forced W. S. C. runners to do most of their preliminary training on the enclosed outdoor track, they managed to win from the Vandals, 92-39. Bob Davis was high point man of the meet with two first places.

The Cougars' second dual meet of the season took place the following week at Seattle. The strong Husky track squad, which later in the spring won the conference championship on the cinder path, swamped Washington State under a 93-38 count. Washington won eleven out of fourteen firsts in this meet.

The second meet at home was held with O. A. C. on Rogers Field during Campus week-end. Although the Beavers won the meet, 77 1-2 to 53 1-2, the result was a surprise, as the Aggie team was expected to win by a much larger margin. Snook of O. A. C. was high point man with fifteen points to his credit. Michel of W. S. C. captured first in the half-mile from Dodge of O. A. C. by a scant foot, in the most thrilling race of the meet.

The track season came officially to a close when the Coast Conference meet was held at Seattle on May twenty-seventh. Six colleges were represented, finishing in the following order: University of Washington, O. A. C., U. of O., Montana, W. S. C., and Idaho.

The meet was made notable by the fact that two conference records were broken. Dodge of O. A. C. lowered the mark in the half-mile by three-fifths of a second when he ran this distance in one minute 56 3-5 seconds. Gill, U. of I., established a new record in the two mile, when he ran that event in 9 minutes 44 2-5 seconds, seven seconds faster than the time made by Hobart of O. A. C. in 1921.

CLARENCE LOOMIS—"Spud"

One of W. S. C.'s all-round athletes. Earned his second letter as a hurdler. Could be counted on to push the leaders in every race.

PERLEY WASHBURN—"Prunes"

Developed into a star two-miler in his second year of conference competition. Doc will have a hard time to find a man to fill his shoes.

ROBERT DAVIS—"Bob"

The best sprinter on the squad. High point man in the Idaho meet. Captain-elect and second year on the team.

PHILLIP FOX—"Phil"

The handsome hurdler. Made his letter for the first time after losing out by a narrow margin the two years previous.

HENRY MICHEL—"Heinie"

Furnished one of the thrills of the season when he nosed out Dodge by a scant foot in the 880 in the O. A. C. meet. Established a new record for Rogers field in the 880-yard run. Second letter in the cinder sport.

MALCOLM McLEOD—"Mac"

Star miler from last year's frosh. Ought to develop into a consistent point winner in the next two years under Doc's tutelage.

LOYAL ERICKSON—"Erick"

Made his first letter in track by breaking the State College javelin record. "Erick" ought to make a reliable point winner for next year.

WALTER TROW

Doc Bohler's mainstay in the high jump. Able successor to Jenne in this event. Has two more years in which to represent W. S. C.

ERNEST DURRWACHTER—"Butch"

Truck's partner in the field events. "Butch" won points in the broad jump, discus and shot put.

VARSITY TRACK SQUAD

Frosh Track 1922

The class of 1925 was even more successful on the cinder path last spring than it was on the baseball diamond. Although they took part in only two meets, they won both by decisive scores.

The first meet was with North Central High School at Pullman on May 6. The Frosh managed to garner just one hundred more points than the high school, winning by the score of 115½ to 15½. The last meet was also a dual meet, and was held with the Idaho Frosh at Pullman on May 26. The Idaho first year men provided a slightly stiffer brand of competition than did the high school athletes, but succumbed to W. S. C.'s faster squad, 102 to 29.

The following men composed the squad:

Hales, McCarty, Kromm, Charleton and Weileman—dashes.
Peterson, Peddicord, McCurdy and Kirkpatrick—hurdles.
Leslie and McDougal—distances.
Morrow—pole vault.
Chandler—high jump.
Crouch—broad jump.
Purnell—javelin.
McKillip—weights.

Vern Ewing, Captain
WRESTLING

Varsity Wrestling 1922-23

Four meets won and two lost, was the record made by the Cougar wrestling squad during the season of 1922-1923. W. S. C.'s mat artists managed to win from the Spokane Y. M. C. A., Idaho (twice), and Oregon, while they lost their contests to the University of Washington and O. A. C.

THE SPOKANE Y. M. C. A.

With the return of four veterans to the campus in the fall, speculation became ripe among the wrestling fans as to how far the Cougars would get toward the championship. Their hopes began to soar when Whicher's men decisively defeated the strong Y. M. C. A. aggregation from Spokane in the first meet of the year, held in the gymnasium on January twenty-seventh, when they won all five of the bouts.

IDAHO AT PULLMAN

The next meet, with Idaho at Pullman, on February ninth, was very close, and was not decided in Washington State's favor until the ineligibility of Brown, Vandal heavyweight, was discovered after the meet. It was in this way that Steve White's shoulder was broken, keeping him out for the rest of the season.

IDAHO AT MOSCOW

The following week Coach Whicher and his men paid their return call to the Vandals, and came back with the big end of a 38-26 score. The outcome of the meet was in doubt until the final bout between Hamilton and Kinnison, Hamilton beating the Idaho middleweight by a decision.

THE UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON AT PULLMAN

The last home game of the season was with the University of Washington on March third, the Huskies winning by the close score of 32-26. This meet was also tied at 26 all until the last bout between Ewing and Griffin, University of Washington, welterweight, the latter winning the match and the meet for the Huskies. Eight hundred fans crowded into the gymnasium to witness the event.

Varsity Wrestlers

VERNON EWING—"Vern"

Captain and three year letter winner. Always a good defensive man, Vern developed a distinctly aggressive style this year. Wrestles at 145 pounds.

ILMAR JAHLSTROM—'Jolly"

Jolly upheld the reputation he made last year and proved to be one of W. S. C.'s most dependable point winners. Has wrestled his last year, in the 125-pound class.

SIGURD GULDJORD

Won his blanket in the mat sport this year by proving himself one of the most aggressive grapplers on the squad. Weight, 158 pounds.

DANIEL ALLEN—"Dan"

Second year on the squad but first time for a letter. Will represent W. S. C. in the 135-pound division next year. Dan will be the only letterman back.

ROGERS HAMILTON—"Ham"

Ham started out by wrestling in the 158-pound class in the first two meets, and then graduated to the 175-pound division. Graduates this year.

THE WRESTLING TEAM

THE OREGON MEETS

The Cougars wrestled their last two meets of the season in Oregon. On Saturday, March tenth, they lost to the O. A. C. Beavers at Corvallis before a crowd of three thousand while the following Monday they came back strong and swamped Oregon under a 36-0 score at Eugene.

Much credit is due Coach Whicher for the success of the season. Coming here this year with a fine record of successful coaching behind him, he has put wrestling on such a plane that it enjoyed a hitherto unknown popularity during the past season. The secret of this popularity lies in the fact that Whicher trains his men to go out for falls. To use his own words, "If a man is not good enough to win by a fall, I do not want him on my team."

Merrill Heald, Captain

TENNIS

Varsity Tennis 1922

Heald

Webber

Korter

The 1922 season on the courts was a fairly successful one for the Cougars. Although handicapped by rainy weather, which forced the players to do most of their practicing in the gym, the team managed to win three out of seven dual meets and came out second in the triangular meet with Idaho and Whitman here on June second and third.

The first five of the dual meets were played away from home. With little or no outdoor practice to steady their game, W. S. C.'s team, composed of Captain Heald, Webber and Korter, took a trip to Oregon. They lost to O. A. C. at Corvallis by a score of three matches to one, to Willamette at Salem four to one, and to Oregon at Portland, four to one. One their way home they defeated Whitman, five to one.

With but a five-day rest, Captain Heald took his men to Moscow and administered a four to one beating to the Vandals.

On Campus Day, W. S. C. met Willamette for the second time, and lost two to one, on the local courts. On the following Saturday, the Cougars again defeated Idaho here in the last dual meet of the year.

The season closed with a triangular meet between Idaho, Whitman and W. S. C., held at Pullman on June second and third. Whitman upset the dope by winning in both the singles and the doubles, while W. S. C. was second in both, and Idaho third.

Inter-Fraternity Baseball 1922

PYRAMID CLUB—CHAMPIONS 1922

The Pyramid Club won the inter-group baseball championship last spring by defeating the University Club in the final contest of the series, 9-8.

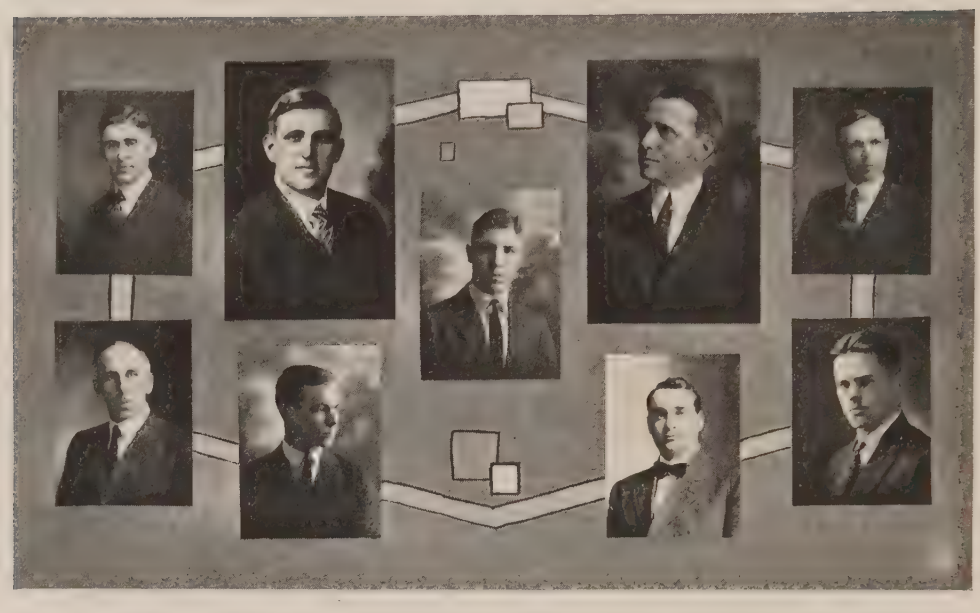
Nineteen teams entered the league when it was started by "Paddy" Zink at the beginning of the baseball season. Due to the shortness of the playing season last spring, it was decided to eliminate a team as soon as it lost two games. The first two rounds resulted in the dropping of the Vocational Club, Psi Nu Sigma, Delta Club and Delta Tau Alpha from the lists. In the next round Theta Xi, Alpha tau Omega, Sigma Chi and Alpha Gamma Rho were eliminated.

The Kappa Sigs, Phi Delts, Betas and Gamma Phis all lost their second game in the fourth round, leaving but seven teams to settle the argument among themselves. In the fifth round the University Club copped a close contest from the Spees, 8-7, while Lamba Chi Alpha swamped the Kappa Sigs under a 26-4 deluge. In the other contest the Pyramid Club won from S. A. E., 10-7.

Four teams remained for the semi-finals. In the first contest the University Club eliminated one of the strongest championship contenders by defeating the Lambda Chis 12-5. In the other game of the semi-finals, the Pyramid Club nosed out the Sphinx Club.

The following evening the Profs tangled with the Pyramid Club for the championship, the latter team winning the game and the league championship.

Athletic Council



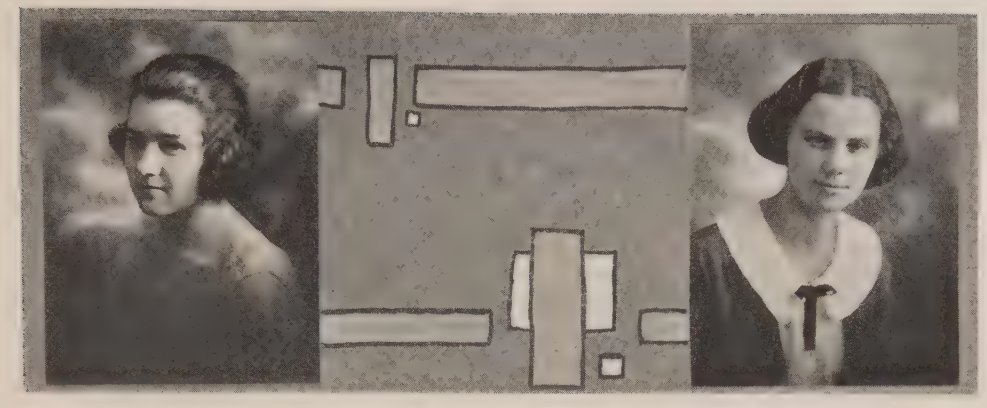
Dirstein Bohler Loomis Holland Chambers
Carpenter Friel Kruegel Davis

The Athletic Council consists of the President of the College, three members of the faculty, appointed by the President of the College, three members of the Alumni elected by the Alumni Association and three under-graduate students elected at the annual election of the Associated Students.

The Council has full charge and control of all athletic matters connected with the college.

It keeps a complete record of all games in which teams representing the State College of Washington participate.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS



Lois Comstock

Amy Kelso

THE FINAL EMBLEM

All senior women who won the "W" sweater are eligible for the final award. In addition to athletic accomplishment, the spirit shown on the athletic field as well as on the campus, the service a girl has given for women's athletics as well as other campus activities, and the excellence of scholarship shall be the basis for selection.

Amy Kelso and Lois Comstock were awarded the final emblem in 1922.

INSTRUCTORS

Miss Mary R. McKee, head of the Women's Department of Physical Education, has been instrumental in effecting a reorganization of W. A. A., which has made it possible to become a member of the Athletic Conference of American College Women. Miss McKee graduated from the University of Wisconsin and has done advanced work at Teachers College, Columbia University.

Miss Hazel Wright, instructor of basketball, track, hockey, and interpretative dancing, has done much in building up interest in these sports. Miss Wright graduated from the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Ruth Morris, instructor in folk dancing, hockey, tennis, and both indoor and outdoor baseball, graduated from the University of Wisconsin and received her Masters degree at Columbia University. She was formerly instructor at the University of Illinois.

The Women's Athletic Association is an organization whose purpose is to promote physical efficiency among the women of the State College of Washington by encouraging sports, gymnastics, and other athletic activities. It is established on a point system. One hundred and fifty points and a good scholastic standing are required for admittance. Fifty points must be earned each semester to retain membership. Points are earned by gaining places on the various teams and by making hikes.

W. A. A. Awards

W. A. A. PIN

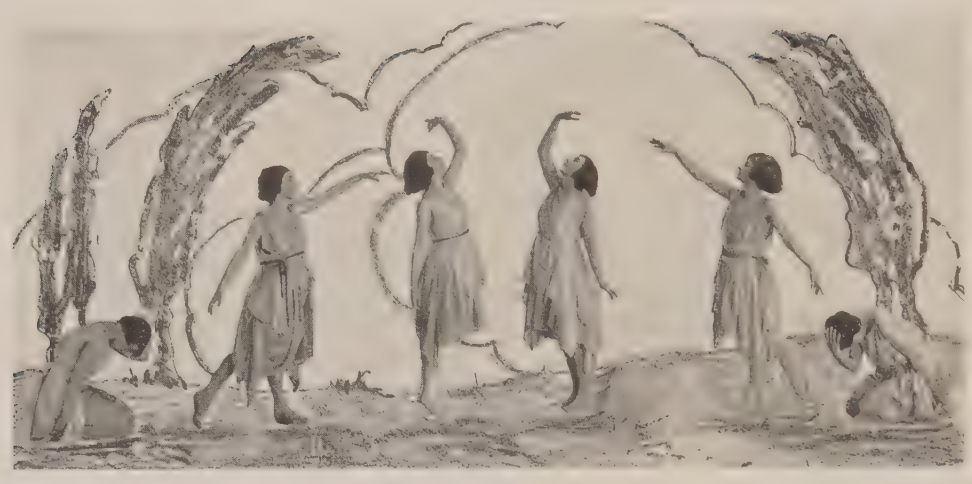
The privilege of wearing the official pin is granted to those members of the Women's Athletic Association who have won four hundred points. It is given to those who have not enough points for a sweater, yet have done well enough in athletics to deserve recognition.

CRIMSON "W" WEARERS

A sweater is awarded to all members of the Women's Athletic Association who have a total of eight hundred points. It is the highest honor that a woman can win in athletics. All wearers of the "W" are members of the "Crimson W" Club.

The wearers of the "W" are Virginia Shaw, Lucy Dickson, Mary Dunning, Beryl Price, Carol Cornish, Alice Tardy, Iona Van Hise, Ida Hedborg, and Ruth Davies.

Dancing



Interpretative dancing is becoming more and more popular and a great majority of college women are taking it up in connection with their work in the Physical Education Department. The bodily benefits derived from dancing are even greater than those derived from any of the out door athletics. Many excellent dancers have been developed in the department of the State College and the Dance Festival on Women's Field Day is a credit to the instructors in this branch of the work.

The interpretative dancing now being taught at the State College of Washington has for its aim, self expression through the medium of bodily movement, revealing mental and emotional states, stimulated and regulated by music. Through the so-called fundamentals, or exercises for control, we gain the freedom of movement which can only be had by the individual who knows his possibilties and limitations. Self-consciousness is relieved and the dancer is free to respond.

The dancing classes are open for beginning, intermediate, and advanced work. The costume required is a simple crepe costume somewhat on the Greek style.

At the closing of each school year the Department of Physical Education has a Women's Field Day, and at this time people selected from the dancing classes present a Dance Festival as a final for the year.

Women's Field Day

Women's Field Day and the May Fete were held May 27, 1922, by the Women's Department of Physical Education. The championship games in baseball, volley ball, and tennis were played and the interclass track meet was held. The Freshmen carried off the honors of the day by winning the baseball and volley ball championships and the track meet. The Juniors won the tennis championship. Honor teams in each sport were chosen and announced at the end of the events.

Ethel Kelley was crowned Queen of the May. Her maid of honor was Merle Kelso and the attendants were Celia McDowell, Vivian Patton, and Madeline Powers. Following the coronation of the May Queen, a dance drama, "The Cycle of the Hours" was presented by the members of the dancing classes of Miss Hazel Wright. The hours of dawn, day and evening danced while the shadows played, the reapers and gleaners went to and from their work, and the Will O'Wisps danced. The winners of the Final Emblem, Amy Kelso and Lois Comstock, were announced between the dances.

Jamboree and Co-ed Cotillion

Alice in Wonderland and Jiggs, Happy Hooligan and Maggie, Barney Google and Winnie Winkle, the Gold Dust Twins, Mother Hubbard, Buster Brown and hosts of other national characters attended the Crimson "W" Jamboree at the White Owl on October 14th.

Over three hundred women in costume formed the grand march which passed in review before the judges stand. "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe" with her prodigious family won the first prize for her costume and a perfectly fascinating "man-about-town" was awarded second prize.

This was the Third Annual Crimson "W" Jamboree. It is a popular and strictly feminine social event given in the fall of each year in honor of the Freshmen girls.

Every Freshman girl who attended the Co-ed Cotillion given by Mortar Board in the gymnasium, February 5th, left the affair with a feeling that "this is a college, and I am a part of it." Costumes of every description were worn and the two most original received prizes. Special features were numerous and the women's orchestra, in costume, provided some splendid syncopation.

Patronesses for the Jamboree were Dean Gerlach, Dean Harrison, Miss Mary McKee, Miss Ruth Morris and Miss Ruth Miller. Those for the Cotillion were Dean Gerlach, Dean Harrison, Miss Mary McKee and Mrs. Louise Nasmyth.

The Beauty Contest

Thomas H. Ince

The selection of the six winners in W. S. C.'s first beauty contest was no small undertaking and it was only after careful planning and competent supervision that the final winners were chosen.

First, a committee of seven women was appointed to make the primary eliminations. The president of Women's League was chairman of this committee. Anyone had the privilege of handing in the name of anyone whom he considered a likely contestant and it was the duty of every girl on the committee to keep her eyes open for "prospects" and at the same time to look up the girls whose names had been handed in. In this way they were able to judge for themselves. They received about eighty names in all.

The next step was to cut the eighty down to twenty, and by careful elimination this was done. Photographs were then taken of the twenty.

These twenty photographs, without being retouched, were sent to Thomas H. Ince at Culver City, California, and the six best looking pictures were marked and returned. The factors of popularity and personality were not considered and the selection was made from the unretouched photographs.

The names of the six winners were kept secret until the Chinook of '24 went on sale.

THE MEN'S TOUR

THE MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The Men's Glee Club started on the twenty-sixth annual tour, Friday, February sixteenth.

The club, composed of the ensemble chorus, a six-piece orchestra, a violin soloist, four vocal soloists and stunt men was primed for what proved to be a record trip.

The first concert was presented to a responsive audience in the Millwood High School auditorium Friday night.

In Pasco the following evening everything went along smoothly until Ed Smith, the banjoist and baritone was mistaken for a waiter while wearing his dress suit in the hotel dining room. The troubadors left Pasco that night after a very delightful dance staged by the American Legion Post. Sunday evening the men staged a sacred concert in Everett, returning to Seattle that night.

Tacoma was the Monday night stop and it was here that the Club put over the most successful concert of the tour. The Stadium High School auditorium was packed to the limit with a very appreciative audience and the men responded to the applause. After the concert the men were entertained at a dinner dance at the Tacoma hotel.

Thus far the traveling had been a pleasure, but the supreme event of the trip was yet to come. This big time was due to the effort and hospitality of the parents of Lawrence Berg, the "Old Salt." It was a boat trip on a yacht captained and manned by the Glee Club men. The voyage was an adventure for some and a pleasure for all.

Imagine a beautiful spring day, a trim little yacht, superb scenery, and a crowd of twenty-eight of "them young college fellers," with nothing on their minds but their hats and the girl in Pullman, who was almost a memory by this time. The trip was between Tacoma and Olympia. Before the boat moored, the Frosh on the club scrubbed decks, washed the portholes, shined the brass, and washed dishes as a part of their initiation.

In Olympia the men were well received at the regular concert Tuesday night, and at the legislature Wednesday morning. Immediately after the program in the State House the singers made a trip by stage from Olympia to Aberdeen. Aberdeen had a surprise in store—no rain. There the Club played to a full house and was royally entertained after the show by a dance at the Elk's Temple. The success of the stop in Aberdeen was brought about through the efforts of "Fat" Herreid, the Aberdeen Sheik and football mentor.

THE GLEE CLUB ORCHESTRA

The trip to Mt. Vernon was made by bus and interurban with the result that the men were well worn out for the concert that night. Again the Club was indebted to a loyal W. S. C. Alumnus. Frank Jenne saw to it that the men were well entertained, the entertainment including a banquet with the high school seniors, a large and responsive audience for the show, and a dance at the Country Club after the performance.

The following morning found the singers on the road at eleven o'clock. They travelled to Everett and presented a short matinee program at the high school. That night they went to the University where they sang a joint concert with the University Club. The men were assisted in the joint concert by Mrs. Verl Keiser, whose piano solo by Liszt captured the audience.

Saturday the club journeyed to Ellensburg and staged the last concert of the tour that night. Mrs. Keiser assisted in this concert also.

At the hour of midnight the men climbed into their berths with the thought of student work to be made up. Sunday morning they arrived in Pullman and slowly wended their way back to their books and study tables.

March tenth the club in conjunction with the Women's Glee Club presented a concert to a packed house at the Auditorium Theatre in Spokane. The following night the two clubs sang a sacred concert in the First Presbyterian church of Spokane.

The home concerts were presented Friday and Saturday nights, March second and third. The townspeople and students showed their appreciation with their ready applause.

Sunday night, March 18th, they made their last formal appearance in a sacred concert at the Liberty theatre.

THE VARSITY QUARTET

All audiences like quartet music, and when Keiser, Eaton, Smith and Isaacs get together, a treat can be expected.

Verl Keiser, the veteran first tenor of the Varsity Quartet, and Harry Isaacs, singing his third year of bass, did the best work of their college careers. Frank Eaton, second tenor, and Ed Smith, Baritone, served for the first time on the Varsity, and showed that they belonged there.

THE MEN'S QUARTET

THE JOINT CONCERT

The Glee Club season started off with a bang October 27, the evening before Homecoming, when the Men's Glee Club, the Women's Glee Club, and the University of Washington Glee Club appeared in joint concert in the Auditorium. The program proved to be a good beginner for a year of brilliant musical productions. It was the summing up of the best of three excellent college musical organizations, and carried out well the tradition of having joint concerts between the two institutions.

The visitors from the University of Washington opened the program with "Alma Mater" and "Homeland" by Speaks. Throughout the evening, their ensemble singing was shaded perfectly, and their offerings pleased. "Sylvia," by Speaks, and "Standing in the Need of Prayer," by Reddick, were their two best numbers. The U. of W. violin sextet, and the University quartet contributed greatly to the musical part of the program.

The Women's Glee Clue showed its worth in the first group, "The Miller's Wooing," by Faning, "The Cuckoo Clock," by Schafer, and "Morning," by Speaks. Their voices blended wonderfully and they did their part in making the concert a success.

The Men's Club scored with "Hail, Hail to Thee," Alma Mater song, music by F. C. Butterfield and words by Alice Webb. The two other numbers of the group, both excellent were "I Love a Little Cottage" and "Comin' Through the Rye," both by O'Hara. The mixed quartet, composed of Helen Adams, soprano; Verl Keiser, tenor; Alice Prindle, alto and Harry Isaacs, bass, won the praise of music lovers on their singing of "Just Like Your Eyes," by Grunn. "All Over Nothing at All," sung by the Men's quartet was well received. Joe Hungate gave a piano solo, Lanta Krider a bass solo and William Just a violin solo.

The lighter part of the program, well arranged, furnished many hearty laughs, and was featured by clever skits of all sorts. The Glee Club Orchestra played several popular selections, Harold Thompson of the University gave a clever monologue, Berton Negley of the University entertained with comedy songs, Harleth Steinke gave a dance, "Tiny" Humes and Frank Martin gave their conception of "Campus Noises," and Erle Hannum and Ed Smith entertained with a banjo duet. "Till My Luck Comes Rolling Along" was sung and danced in a clever number by a College Octet, composed of Irene Oliver, Irene Getsman, Rachel Davis, Melba Knifong, Clavton Bernhard, Verl Keiser, Frank Eaton, and Winfield Herman.

As a climax to the evening was the song, "Co-ed," music by LaVerne Askin, lyric by Agnes Friel, sung by both the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, with Millicent Brown, soprano, and William Steiner, tenor, as soloists.

THE WOMEN'S TOUR

THE WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

The State College of Washington Women's Glee Club gave its first concert of the 1923 tour on the night of March 9, before a packed house, in the Congress theatre at Palouse. The program was enthusiastically received, and the annual trip was given a good start.

The next evening the Men's and Women's clubs appeared in joint recital in the Auditorium theatre in Spokane. The audience was one of the largest of the year for that theatre, and the clubs made a decided hit. While in Spokane, the combined clubs gave a program from the Mezzanine floor of the Davenport Hotel, and were honored by Mr. Davenport with a special dinner in the "Hall of the Doges." On Sunday evening, March 11, the combined Glee Clubs gave a joint sacred concert at the First Presbyterian Church.

THE WOMEN'S TRIO

Prosser was the next stop. There the Women's Glee Club met with success at two concerts, one Monday afternoon at the high school, and the other in the evening. The Yakima concert on the following evening was given at the large Capital theatre, and was attended by a record crowd of fifteen hundred people. A program was given in the afternoon at the Yakima High School and several members gave special numbers at the noon luncheon of the Kiwanis Club.

On Wednesday, March 14, a concert was given at Everett, preceded by an entertainment at the high school in the afternoon. Both appearances were made to capacity houses. Thursday's recitals were given at Auburn and Kent in the afternoon, and at Auburn in the evening. Members of the club sang for the Kiwanis Club luncheon at noon.

THE WOMEN'S ORCHESTRA

Friday, March 16, found the girls in Seattle. They sang in the morning at Queen Anne and West Seattle High Schools and were entertained by the Chamber of Commerce at a special luncheon at the Frye Hotel. In the afternoon the club members were guests of honor at a tea given by the University Chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon at the Delta Gamma house. The evening concert was given at the Broadway High School.

Saturday morning the club was taken by private launch provided by Mr. Berg of Tacoma, father of Lawrence Berg of W. S. C., on a trip to Bremerton, and thence to Tacoma. In Tacoma, the recital was given at the Lincoln High School before a delighted audience. Tacoma was prepared in advance for this concert by short programs given before the students in both high schools and at the Lions Club earlier in the week. After the concert a reception in honor of the club was given at "Gray Gables" by Mrs. Eccles, mother of one of the members of the club.

THE TRIO

Sunday morning the organization appeared in a sacred concert at the Mason M. E. church and in the afternoon gave a sacred concert at Puyallup in the High School auditorium. A reception was given at the Truedson home after the recital. The club left Sunday evening for Pullman in a special car provided by the Northern Pacific Railway.

The trip was scheduled by Leonard Downie, who, although unable to make the tour deserves a lot of credit for the management of it. William Jackson proved a most efficient stage manager.

THE BAND

THE STATE COLLEGE BAND

Can a band turn out real music?

The State College band has answered this question during the year 1923, and at its first concert of the year, given chapel hour on Tuesday, November 28, it proved conclusively to the student body that it can. Under the direction of Professor Karel Havlicek, and Mahlon Merrick, student conductor, the organization provided a real entertainment. Its instrumentation was well balanced, and at no point did the audience grow tired of the program.

Ernest Reed, tubaphone soloist, provided the real feature of the recital, in his number, "Sacred Melody," by Brook. He startled the audience with rapid runs on the big horn, and pretty mellow tones.

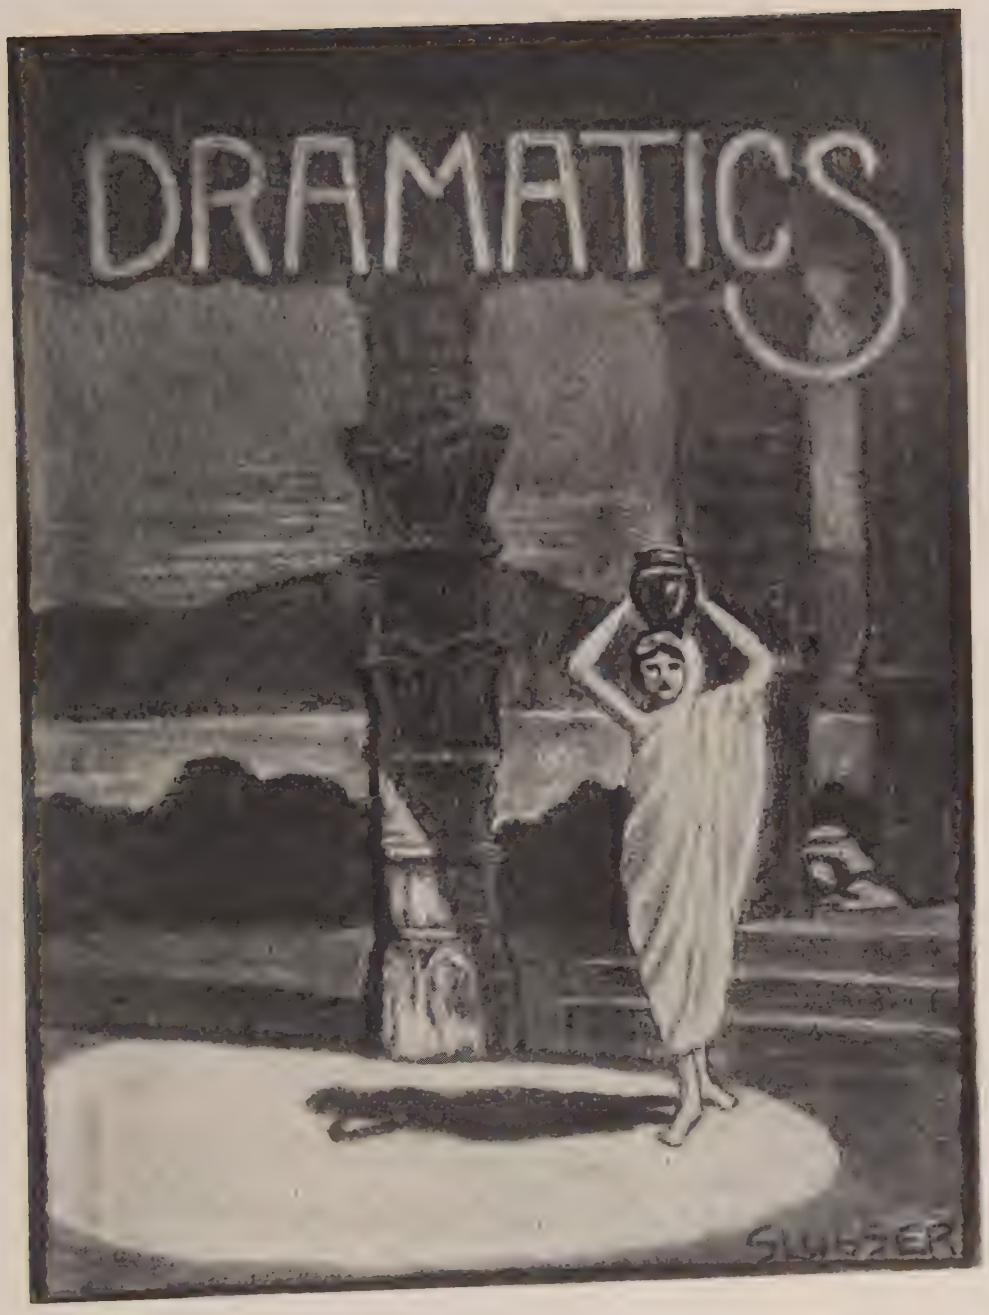
The Band played four ensemble numbers, "Regimental Band March," by Lincoln; "Reverie," by Freed; "Feast of the Lanterns" overture, Bennett, and "Campus Memories," Seredy.

The other solo number of the program was the "Rosary," by Nevin, sung by Miss Alice Prindle, with violin obligato played by William Just.

Of course the Military Band has another duty to perform, that of providing the music for the morning march of the State College R. O. T. C., and any cadet will testify that it did its work well in that respect. The silvery notes of the cornets, backed up by the trombones, altos, French horns, clarinets, saxophones and tubas, made the cadet soldiers forget their army life.

THE ORCHESTRA

Under the direction of Professor Karel Havlicek, the State College Orchestra has had in 1922-1923 one of the most successful seasons since its beginning. Although it was handicapped by a lack of instruments in the wood-wind section, the playing of the organization did not seem overbalanced in any of the concerts. The string section was especially strong during the season, containing many excellent instrumentalists.



DRAMATICS
SLUBZER

"Tillie"

Directed by Mr. N. E. Reeid.

"Tillie" was the play chosen by Mask and Dagger, the honorary dramatic fraternity of the State College for its annual presentation. This was presented at the University of Idaho in exchange for "Adam and Eva" on May 5 and in the College Auditorium, May 6.

A quaint little story dealing with the Pennsylvania Dutch and the Mennonite faith furnished the plot.

"Clarence"

Directed by Ellen H. Gould

The Senior Class play, "Clarence," was a rollicking four-act comedy by Booth Tarkington presented just before the close of school. The theme of the comedy was based upon the experiences of a young man who went to war, not as an officer, but as a mule driver. He did not win medals, had no great accomplishments and no shoulder bars; he was just one of the "five million." After the war, he returned to civil life, securing a position as counselor, guide and friend to a wealthy but agitated and distracted family group. In this position Clarence did everything from plumbing to playing a saxophone.

College Revue

My Lady's Dressing Table

Directed by Miss Irene Oliver

Skits, sketches, pretty girls in dances, parodies, saxophone wails and comic patter were features of the College Revue, an eight act production presented by all-college talent under the direction of a Women's League Committee for the benefit of the Women's Building Fund.

Artistic and colorful, the dance of India, directed, written and worked out in detail by Leota Scott, was awarded first prize. "My Lady's Dressing Table," the McCroskey Hall act, was given second prize and the Masque and Dagger play, "The Potboilers" was placed third.

The Dance of India was sensational and particularly exceptional for its lighting and scenic effects. Leota Scott, throwing herself into the death dance with utter abandon, made the audience completely forget her and become aware only of the slave girl about to be sacrificed to the insatiable goddess, Nirvana. Erna Toevs was impressive as the cruel goddess. Melba Knifong and Faerie Wallace charmed the audience with their skilled, rythmic movements.

Originality and cleverness portrayed in "My Lady's Dressing Table," by pretty girls, unique parodies and Millicent Brown as leading lady made McCroskey's act an immediate success.

The "Pot Boilers," a satirical take off on playwrights was ably presented. Waverly Lindsay, the erratic, conceited dramatist was especially good and Lawrence Goodrich as the would-be playwright did his part very well.

"Madame's Career"

Directed by N. E. Reeid

Effective costuming, a decidedly foreign atmosphere, realistic setting and splendid acting made "Madame's Career," presented by Mr. Reeid's class in advanced dramatics on March 30th and 31st, a brilliant success.

Leone Webber in the role of Madame Lisa Della Robia, portrayed the vital character of this temperamental prima donna not only with technical skill but also with artistic intuition. As Gerald Fitzgerald, Madame's husband, Howard Morris presented effectively the difficult character of the staid Ameriacn business man. Bernice Witt in the role of the affected widow, Mrs. Flora Preston, was graceful and charming. Laurence Goodrich, portrayed in his acting the artistic soul of his mother and the scientific reserve of his father. Bernice Beal and Lillian Staples played the part of John's fiancee.

"The Brat"

The Brat, a story of New York Society life, by Maude Fulton, was presented by Ellen H. Gould in the college auditorium.

Margaret Bement and Christine Mack as "The Brat" were very able as portrayors of the impulsive, independent girl. Laurence Goodrich and Keene Brundage did very well in the lead as Stephen Forrester. The play is a presentation of New York life and shows the two extremes of society.

Oratory and Debate

Turner Brockway Weller

Forensic activities at the State College during the past year have been both a success and a failure. Our debate teams participated in two dual meets and one single, losing all five contests by a two to one vote. The success has come in the fact that the students of the State College have been awakened to the lack of interest and participation in forensic work and have determined that W. S. C. shall turn over a new leaf.

The varsity team was composed of: Affirmative, Clark Robinson and Delmar Gray; Negative, Rex Turner and Fred Weller. Turner and Weller are now two-year varsity men and will probably be back for forensic work next year.

The same question was used in all debates, namely: "Resolved, that the several states should establish industrial courts with powers to enforce their decisions for the adjudication of industrial disputes in essential industries." The two dual debates were held with Utah Agriculture College, University of Montana, the single was with Colorado Agriculture College.

The debate committee was made up of Fred Weller, chairman; Thad Byrne, and Valeda Brockway.

Greater interest was shown in declamation this year than for several years past. Twenty contestants tried out for the preliminaries, six of these being chosen for the finals held before the student body at assembly period. Glenn Maughmer won first place, second by Sally Jo Walker.

Dairy Cattle Judging Team

E. V. Ellington H. J. Bliss

O. J. Hill

At the 1922 Pacific International Exposition this team placed second in the Intercollegiate Judging contest, first in Ayrshires, first in Jerseys, and second in Holsteins. Professor Ellington coached the team.

Dairy Products Judging Team

C. W. Miller

L. W. King C. A. Arveson

A. H. Rishoi

The team placed third in the contest, first in judging milk, and second in butter. King was high man judging milk, and Miller took first in butter. Instructor Rishoi coached the team.

Compau

Members of the stock-judging team competing at the Western Royal and the Pacific International shows were Frank Ruppert, Warren Love, G. Orien Baker, Cecil Compau, and Leonard Le Grant. Alternates, Fred Olson and Roland Ward.

The team was first at the Western Royal, competing against the University of Idaho, and Oregon Agricultural College, and was fifth at the Pacific International competing against the University of California, University of Idaho, Oregon Agricultural College, University of Montana and University of British Columbia.

Frank Ruppert was high point man in sheep at the Western Royal.

Evergreen

Bernhard Mundy Bucklin

The Evergreen, which is the official publication of the Associated Students of the State College, first began as a weekly paper, then it was changed to a bi-weekly and finally at a meeting of the Associated Students on November 9, 1922 an amendment was unanimously passed which changed the paper to a tri-weekly. Beginning with the first issue of 1923 the Evergreen began on this new basis.

THE COUGAR'S PAW STAFF

In the fall of 1921, following the failure of The Glebe as a quarterly publication, it was decided that a magazine, half of which was to be devoted to journal work and half to humor, should be substituted for the old publication. The Glebe had been an attempt at a literary publication and the name "Glebe" still meant, to many, a magazine heavy with cheerless poems and genius unrecognized. So the name, as well as the policy and size, was changed and Cougar's Paw was decided upon as the new title.

The first Cougar's Paw was edited by Irvin Dunnegan and Harold Sinclair was business manager. During the year 1921-1922, the magazine was published four times as was planned and with each issue the circulation increased. In fact, it increased to such an extent that it was possible to pay off a sixty dollar debt which the Glebe left behind.

And today, with The Cougar's Paw just two years old, it promises to rank with the leading college publications of its kind in the west.

In Addition

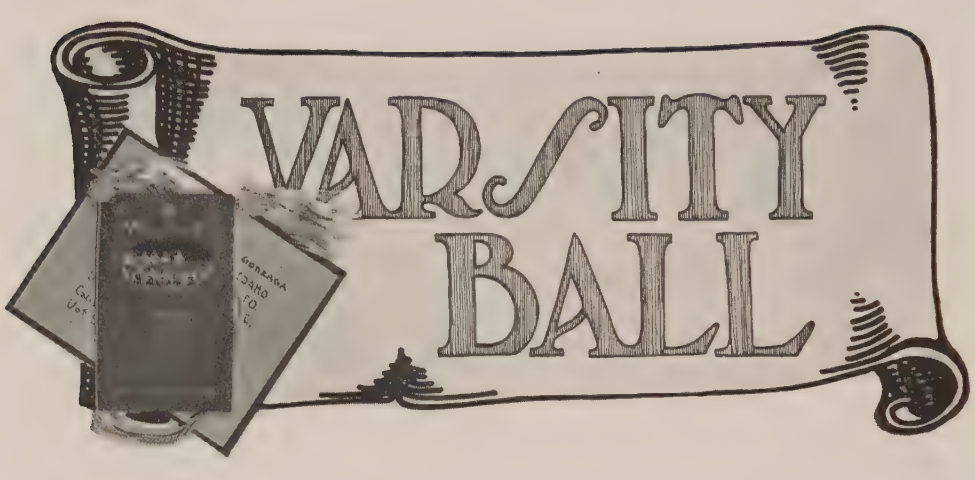
Numerous, indeed, and in no ways small are the features that have come to the State College of Washington. The increasing of our publication, "The Evergreen," from "twice a-week" to a tri-weekly publication was a definite step forward for the students. But as important, if not more important, was the establishment of a Grid Graf whereby the student body can witness, play by play, the football games played on other fields.

This graf cost approximately four hundred dollars and is complete in every detail. Every plan is complete and the movements of each player, the ball, yardage and downs are perfectly reproduced.

Another big addition to the college was the installation of the new five hundred watt Radio broadcasting station. This station is one of the largest in the Northwest, its nearest imitators being in Denver, Colorado, and Los Angeles, California. With the set, concerts and lectures are sent out at regular intervals and games and athletic events are broadcasted, play by play.

The college has made many definite steps forward this year. If each succeeding year is as successful as the one just past it will be a matter of a very short time until the State College will be ranked with the foremost Colleges of the United States.

SOCIETY



HERE was a perfect setting created for the Varsity Ball given by the Intercollegiate Knights in honor of the Nineteen-twenty-two Football team on December eighth, in the Gymnasium. Pungent pine boughs supporting at the center a huge "W" formed the ceiling, and a gray "W" on a crimson background made attractive walls. In the midst of this realistic forest cave the Washington State Cougar stood guard.

Beautifully appointed corners in opposite ends of the room were reserved, one for the patrons and patronesses, the other for a seven-piece orchestra. Punch was served from a crimson and gray booth.

A picture of the team was on the cover of the Crimson programs, under a triangle formed by the letters W. S. C. in gray. The dances were divided into four quarters, each being separated by a miniature goal.

An exclusive dance was reserved for squad members and also for the wearers of the Gray "W."

The Military Ball held in the Armory February the seventeenth, was the twenty-second annual affair of the Military department.

Features of the decorations were a large American flag, a maze of the national colors forming an intricate artificial ceiling and completely transforming the walls, and a large, flag-draped portrait of George Washington as a centerpiece for one end of the hall. Men in uniform enhanced the military atmosphere.

Programs of white, bearing the national crest in gold, contained a roster of Cadet officers and of the Sponsors' Club.

Cadet Colonel Leo M. Shannon and Miss Hazel LaLone led the grand march.

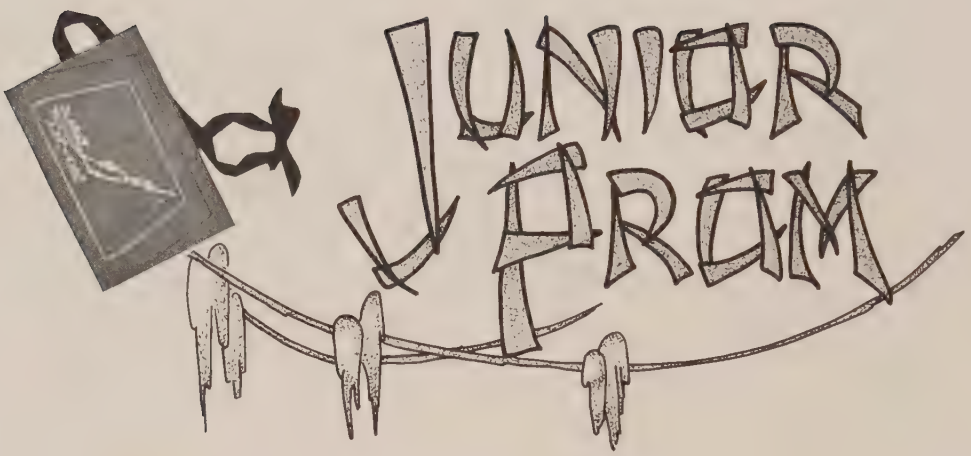
Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gannon

The Committee in Charge

Harold Cook, Chairman
Catherine Mathews
Clay Kuhn
Charlie Brace
Irene Kulzer
Lowell Wiggins



A ceiling of delicate flowers, varied in color from pale pink to deep wistaria, soft light from gay colored oriental lanterns, and the fairy-like cherry blossoms adorning the walls had their share in transforming the gymnasium into a veritable Japanese palace and making the Junior Prom given by the class of Nineteen-twenty-four in honor of the graduating class, on Friday, March the thirteenth, the most picturesque dance ever recorded in the social annals of the college.

Pretty girls in rich Japanese costumes gave a beautiful Manchurian dance as a feature of the evening. An artistic pagoda in one corner of the hall was reserved for the patrons and patronesses.

Frolcrnitus

Alone, I will feel as if all my friends
Have stayed while I have gone.
I'll long for the "fests" 'round the fire at night
And the cheer of a College song.

It will seem as if I am the only man
As we wander away, one by one,
Who has gone, and I'll crave the fraternity life
When fraternity days are done.

Traditions

Traditions are what make a college what it is. They are the hard substance upon which the college spirit is founded. Washington Traditions are the unwritten laws which come from past years—so these customs of the college have been handed down from class to class—reverenced, cherished, rather mellowed by time.

Senior seats are for Seniors only, and are located in the loveliest spots on the campus. Woe be unto the Freshman who dares brave the vigilance committee and attempts to sit there.

Early each fall the "Smoke Stack" is the center of interest. For it is there that the numerals of the Frosh class are painted, the painters themselves being annoyed by tormenting Sophomores who would prevent their succeeding. Since 1906 when the precedent was set the numerals have reached the top of the sixty-foot stack and it is with difficulty that each succeeding class "rises to the occasion."

To further the spirit of democracy on the campus there was created "Hello Walk," a cement walk between the Library and the Administration building. Here everyone greets everyone else with a cheery old "hello." It is a tradition to ring out a friendly W. S. C. "hello" on Hello Walk.

And then there are the green caps—distinction of freshman ignorance. Green caps allow no fussing on the campus or at athletic contests. They are worn from fall until Thanksgiving, and from Saint Patrick's Day to Campus Day. On Campus Day the troublesome head gear is burned at the huge Campus Day Bonfire, and Freshmen are exempted from the imposing indignities caused thereby.

Rather early in the fall there is much interest in the annual Frosh-Soph Supremacy contest. It is usually held on Rogers Field and consists of obstacle races, games, and finally a tug of war through the lake. There is a great spirit of rivalry always between the two classes. This contest strengthens and makes more available that inter class spirit.

No one quite remembers when the first bonfire really was held. It is customary, however, the night before a big game to have a big assemblage of the entire student body near the N. P. depot, where the freshmen build a huge bonfire. Preceding the fire there is a pep rally in the auditorium where talks are given by alums., coaches and captains. Here pep, real Cougar pep, is developed and prevails throughout the following days.

These are some of the Washington State traditions of which we are well proud and which the entering Freshmen soon learn to cherish, as did their predecessors before them.

The happiest hours of my life;
Hours I hold so near
Are those of good old college days
In my college home, so dear.

Pals and friends and happy hours
Will not come back to me,
For some will go to distant lands
Where I can never be.

But memories most sweet to me
As 'round the world I roam,
Will be of all the friends I made
Here in my college home.

The year 1919 marks an epoch in modern language teaching in America. In that year was founded the first Spanish House connected with a college in this country. In a true Castilian family from "Old Madrid" six enthusiastic girls found a Spanish home and lived there the life of Spain; they spoke its language; sang its songs; learned its customs and its cookery. So great was the success of this unique home, that accomodations for double the original number were sought in 1920 and the present modern home at the edge of the campus was purchased and dedicated to W. S. C.'s new ideal of language teaching.

Alpha Zeta is a national honorary agricultural fraternity, whose membership is limited to the upper two-fifths in grades of the Senior, Junior and second semester Sophomore classes. Men are elected to membership on basis of their character, scholarship, and activity on the campus. The purpose of the organization is for the betterment of the agricultural industry in the college and the country as a whole.

Alpha Zeta is interested in the scholarship and the work of agricultural students. This chapter awards, as an incentive to better student work, a silver cup each year to the regularly enrolled sophomore student in agriculture who attained the highest scholastic standing in his freshman year.

Delta Sigma Rho is a National Honorary Forensic Organization. Members are elected from the students and faculty who have won their letter in intercollegiate Debating or Oratory. Its purpose is threefold; first, to foster interest in intercollegiate debating and oratory; second, to work for the interests of high school and intra-mural debating, and literary society activity; third, to afford a common bond of union between debaters in each university, and between forensic men and women in different universities, thus promoting understanding and cooperation not only in forensics, but also in other lines of intellectual activity, with the full belief that such an inter-change of ideas is most necessary to the broadest growth of the individual.

The Intercollegiate Knights is an underclassmen's honorary organization. The Knights seek to promote W. S. C. sportsmanship and prestige by acting as hosts to all visiting athletic teams, and by doing all else that may make events held on Rogers Field and in the college gymnasium a success. Where you find the accoutrement of the Intercollegiate Knight, you find, also, service and protection for your Alma Mater—service and protection in a material way for the athletics and trophies of Washington State, and above all else, service and protection in that bigger way for the spirit, the ideals and the "fight" that have built the State College of Washington.

"Phi Delta Kappa is a professional educational fraternity. In its nature it presents three aspects; namely, the professional, the fraternal, and the honorary." From the Constitution of Phi Delta Kappa.

PHI KAPPA PHI

"This organization was established to provide an honor society dedicated to the Unity and Democracy of Education, open to honor students of all departments of American universities and colleges. Its prime object is to emphasize scholarship and character in the thought of college students, to hold fast to the original purpose for which institutions of learning were founded, and to stimulate mental achievement by the prize of membership." (Phi Kappa Phi Constitution.)

The State College of Washington Chapter of this national honorary society was installed December 16, 1919. Students are elected to membership early in each school year, the total election being limitd to 15 per cent of the graduating class.

Sigma Tau is a National Honorary Engineering Fraternity founded to confer distinction upon upper class engineers who have maintained a high standard of scholarship, who possess a social disposition, and who are able to combine theory with practice. These qualifications for membership point unerringly to the man who will succeed in later life.

The pledges of the local chapter each year place something worth while on the campus. They have built the fountain in front of the postoffice, the sun dial south of Bryan Hall, a fire escape for Van Doren Hall, have repainted the clock dials on the tower of Bryan Hall and established the flood lights for the clock, have raised the fronts of the chapel seats, and have placed on the campus three artistic out-door bulletin boards. Thus the chapter has been of lasting benefit to the State College as well as to the individual members.

HISTORY AND PURPOSE

The All-Ag Club was organized during the spring of 1919. The purpose of the club is to promote the social welfare of the students in agriculture, to enrich their knowledge from outside sources and to promote greater unity among the students enrolled in the College of Agriculture.

Da-a-a! Sheepherders? Naw, they have to do it.

THE ALL-AG FAIR AND "AG BAWL"

In the fall of each year all the departments of Agriculture work in conjunction to put up displays and exhibits of their work with many attractions which make it a complete fair. The evening of this day is spent at the "AG-BAWL" for which the armory is transformed into a regular harvest scene. A prize is given to the Harvest Queen and the favors consist of miniature animals of the farm. Cider and doughnuts are served for refreshments and the programs are pictures from the farm. The day and evening are enjoyable to the many visitors and the student body. The ALL-AG edition of the Evergreen is edited on this day.

THE "MOCK SALE" AND BANQUET

In the spring of each year the livestock of the farm is fitted up for sale. The stock is paraded and then put up for sale at auction. Many of the prominent stock men of the state are present and act as judges. In the evening a banquet is given in honor of the visiting stock men, at which many of the present day problems in the livestock industry are discussed.

The All Engineers is the largest departmental organization on the campus. Its membership comprises the students of Engineering and Mechanical Arts, Mining, Chemistry, and Architecture. It aims to promote fellowship among its members and to interest them in campus activities and in Engineering affairs in the outer world.

The main event of the year is the Engineers' Show, which exhibits in the five Engineering buildings the work of the Engineer in college and in practical life. The All Engineers' dance is the principal social event of the year, featured by unique lighting and decorative effects.

The A. I. E. E. is the national organization representing the electrical engineering profession. It was founded in 1884. The objects of the Institute are the "advancement of the theory and practice of electrical engineering and of the allied sciences, the maintenance of a high professional standing among its members and the development of the individual engineer."

The Student Branches which are established in sixty-two of the foremost technical schools and colleges of the country afford an opportunity for the student to gain a proper perspective of engineering work by enabling him to become acquainted with the personnel and the problems of those engaged in it. Each Branch affords an opportunity by which students can do what they will in their own way. It is a means of independent activity, which has been defined as the purpose of real education.

National Association University Dames

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE CHAPTER

In October, 1900, under the leadership of Mrs. C. B. Davenport, a small group composed of wives and mothers of students and wives of the faculty members formed an organization which they named "The University of Chicago Dames." In May of 1921 at the suggestion of the Columbia Dames and some of the clubs in the state universities, The University of Chicago Dames took steps to form a national association.

In the fall of 1920, under the leadership of Mrs. C. W. Stone, Mrs. A. F. Heck, Mrs. A. L. Lelander, and Mrs. Harold St. John, The Washington State College Dames Club was founded to promote fellowship among student wives. It had a membership of twenty. Mrs. Sidney Allison was elected president of the organization.

In April, 1922, the club was admitted to membership to the National Association of University Dames forming their tenth chapter.

The National Association has chapters at The University of Chicago, University of Minnesota, University of Kansas, University of Michigan, University of Oklahoma, University of Iowa, University of Illinois, Ohio State College, Iowa State College, and the State College of Washington. Other local groups are applying for admission.

The Natural History Club was organized for the purpose of providing a meeting place where students and faculty can discuss the popular phases of the Natural Sciences. To this end semi-monthly meetings are held and varied programs and discussions are given.

Membership is not limited to those enrolled in the Natural Science courses, as an invitation is extended to the faculty, students and townspeople alike.

In the spring and fall, all-day outings to the Snake River Canyon and the Moscow Mountains are looked forward to and enjoyed by all.

The State College of Washington Premedic Club is an organization to which all regularly enrolled premedic students are eligible for membership. Its purpose is to develop a feeling of unity among those students planning for later medical work and to stimulate and conserve their interest in the field of medical training. Practicing physicians and specialists in various lines appear before the club from time to time to discuss their actual experience in the profession.

The Women's League is the all-women's organization of the college, in which all women hold membership by virtue of their registration in college. The purposes of the League are: To promote unity and mutual helpfulness among the women, to maintain the social and moral standards of the college on a high plane, to insure interest in student activities, training in citizenship and high standards in scholarship.

In order to regulate activities and thereby protect the health and scholarship of women students the Point System was put in operation last year by the Women's League, the Vice President of the League being chairman of the Point System and a member of the Associated Students' Point System Committee.

The Women's League takes an important part in offering college hospitality, especially at registration time, when it meets the trains, assists the Dean of Women and is hostess at registration teas, where the old girls are given an opportunity to meet the new girls.

Women's League sponsors the Big Sister movement which is carried out by Mortar Board, and the two big women's parties, the Jamboree given by W. A. A. in the fall and the Colonial dance given by Mortar Board in the spring.

On Mothers' Day, the mothers of the students of the State College of Washington are honored by an annual Mothers' Day Vesper Service.

The League holds membership in the Intercollegiate Conference of All-Women's Organizations and the Washington State Federation of Women's Clubs. The President of the League was sent as a representative to the annual conference of each of these organizations.

The Young Women's Christian Association of the State College of Washington is an active organization with a membership of four hundred and seventy-five students. The membership is open to all college women.

The aim of the organization is to build character, to promote growth in Christian Faith and to encourage a keen intellectual and social development for the purpose of stimulating high Christian standards on the Campus.

The various lines of work are carried on through ten departments. The department chairmen with the five officers are organized into the First Cabinet. The sub-chairman of the departments are organized into the Second Cabinet.

Among the events of the year fostered by the Association are: The tea in honor of all Freshmen girls, the Y. M. and Y. W. Mix, the girls' all-college party, the annual Christmas Bazaar, the weekly noonday services and the promotion of bible classes and church attendance. Through the Social Service work, Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners are provided for needy families. Fifty dollars are given to the European Student Friendship Fund.

Campus Day 1922

Campus week-end last year came May 19 and 20 and was acclaimed by President Holland, who voiced the sentiment of the entire college, as being the biggest and best we have had for seven years.

The Big Five which was appointed to engineer the work of the students was as follows: Big Chief, Bob Douglas; his assistants, Harland Burgess, Harold Roberts, Don Stewart and Jim Henry.

The Women's Big Five was headed by Merle Kelso and included Margaret Stewart, Ethel Kelley, Bertha Boehme, and Gladys Beck.

Although the Frosh began their activities Friday morning at two A. M. the saner portion of the college did not take up the shovel and the rake until seven-thirty. Sidewalks were laid, fences made, and Tanglewood as well as the rest of the campus was raked until it shone with all the freshness of true spring.

At noon the men's labor was rewarded by a feed which the girls had spent the morning preparing. Following this Governor Hart addressed the students, saying that he was too old to be an alumnus of W. S. C. but that he could always come back and be a student again. Then the Glee Clubs gave a concert and the entertainment committee staged several stunts.

In the afternoon O. A. C. beat us in the track meet but this memory was forgotten during the capers of the Frosh as they burned their green caps in the fire. After the fire a big All-College dance was held in the Gym, while Walter Hampton appeared in Hamlet at the Auditorium, and "the day was done."

The Way They Go

She was so simple and sweet. Later she got over being sweet. She used to carry an umbrella and wear big shoes. Of course she couldn't help the shoes; they were the marks of a good understanding. College life agreed with her. She took on weight and "broadened," so to speak. When she went home for vacation her mother said that she was looking well. She was looking healthy, to say the least.

She quit going to dances. She said that she "was just tired of dancing." A lot of men were, too. But they kept on going, in spite of the fact.

Then she took up athletics. She was strong. She got by "heavy," but only with the women. Her relations with the men became more and more distant. Men all had "lines." She was different.

She took up philosophy. Sometimes she spoke great truths. She said she would never get married. "Men are inferior, very inferior." She got good grades in philosophy because she made the professor laugh. Even very witty people could not do that.

In her senior year she was one of the "biggest" women in her class. She was extremely popular; she carried a lot of weight. At times she used to chaperon dances. The dean of women had a lot of confidence in her.

Finally she fell. He had a Ford truck. They used to go motoring on Sunday afternoons. They sat on the beach and she made shade for her dear "Buttercup." And later they were married. It's the same, sad story. And after all she wasn't so very different.

Home Guard Day

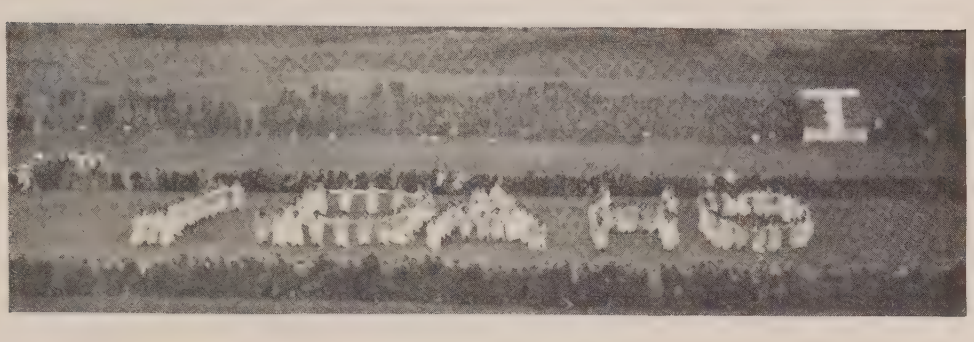
The Rooks are always getting the worst of it. Funny isn't it when the defenders of our nation should have the best there is, but the Rooks' life is a hard one. Each year during their encampment, while they practice military manoeuvers, a day is set aside as Home Guard Day, when the upper classmen don ridiculous clothes and do their best to entertain the feminine portion of the college with their stunts.

On April 25 last year the Rooks went down to Tanglewood and practiced shooting up the place with machine guns and bayoneting the trees. One fellow, feeling that the scene lacked realism, sliced off his own finger with his bayonet and thus gave the hospital corps a chance to use first aid.

While the battle raged in the woods, the rest of the men in the college strove to please the women with their parade which ended at the Armory and resolved itself into a dance. Usually the dancers use the gym but the Rooks thoughtfully flooded that floor and so prevented it from being the scene of festivities.

Late in the afternoon some of the Rooks did slip in a jig or two and then broke camp, patting themselves on the back as having done a good job.

The Harvard Club Contest



The Harvard Club Contest has held the interest of Idaho U. and W. S. C. during the football seasons of the last three years, each striving to outdo the other in a pep stunt of their respective audiences between halves of the big game in November.

Three years ago the Harvard Club of Spokane offered a trophy in the form of a silver shield to the one of the two colleges which put on the best stunt and showed the best spirit and gave the best yells two out of three years at their annual tangle in football.

There had formerly been a good deal of hostility between the colleges and the Club hoped by thus furnishing a common goal to work for and a tangible reason for displaying good sportsmanship, to eliminate the ugly fights which usually occurred before and after the big game.

The first year Idaho could not participate but the next two years she won. The second year her rooters marched onto the field by twos and formed the initials U. of I. Those forming the "I" had white handkerchiefs which they waved while those in the "U" waved yellow ones. Then they sprinkled white confetti along their figure "I," and gold along the "U" so that when they marched off the letters still remained.

The third year the girls dressed in white sweaters and skirts and wearing rooter caps formed the word Idaho while the men made the state pennant around them.

Idaho easily won the trophy and W. S. C. took solace each year by winning the game.

We Are Especially Indebted to—

Mrs. Clara J. Curtis for all the Indian pictures used in this book.

Erna Nelson and Gladys Evans for the vast amount of art work and decoration which they so generously did.

Vivian Whalen for the border, and Veva Parker, Bess Slusser and Holsey Davidson for the work that they did in the Art Department.

The members of the editorial staff for the cooperation which they gave us in collecting and organizing all the material.

The editorial staff assistants for the valuable service they rendered in checking, typing and doing the innumerable jobs that present themselves in the office.

The business staff for the successful handling of that big division of the publication.

Mr. Stephenson of the Artopho Studio for the help he gave us in making our department headings.

Mr. Fred S. Wiman of the Western Engraving and Colortype Co. for the hearty cooperation which we received in that branch of the work.

Mr. R. E. Shipley of the Inland-American Printing Co. for the generous advice and assistance which he was always ready to give.

The Editor wishes to take this opportunity to thank Walt Irvine for the time and work which he has spent on the edition of this annual. Although unable to continue as Editor, the position to which he was elected, Mr. Irvine acted in practically the same capacity. All credit for the originality and new art features of this book is due to him. All the photographed headings, which are an innovation in the Chinook, were planned by Mr. Irvine and photographed under his supervision. It is also due to his efforts that the Chinook was able to obtain the use of the Curtis Indian pictures which appear in the Campus section. This is the first time that the Curtis Studio has made such a concession to a college auunal.

OUR BUSINESS FRIENDS

THE following pages of advertisements reveal the names of our business friends, and those who have been connected with the production of this issue of Chinook will be pleased if all who read this book will favor the advertisers if opportunity offers.

The Staff is sincerely grateful, and wishes to extend cordial thanks to the advertisers for their generous and willing support.

The Confidence of the Public

THERE is a basic principle on which every business enterprise hinges which may concretely be defined as the confidence of the public in that enterprise. No Business can survive or grow without it any more than the body can live without nourishment.

From the beginning we have endeavored to gain this public confidence by always giving the public highest values for their money.

This fact we believe is accountable for our increase in student patronage.

A SHARP REBUFF

The young salesman placed his sample case on the porch and began genially:

"How do you do? I should like to introduce you to our new corn razor."

"You needn't waste your time," replied the farmer sharply. "An' what's more, young feller, that smart city slang won't get you very far in these parts. The next farm you stop at, you'd better call a scythe a scythe."

—W-S-C—

I had proof that he was cheating,
But could not prove so they'd believe,
For when he played the ace of spades
I had that ace right up my sleeve.

The Nuriches had made a fortune out of the war and, anxious to do everything that the rest of the millionaires did, bought a country place on Long Island and set up an aristocratic chicken farm. A woman friend who was visiting them one day exclaimed in delight:

"Goodness, what beautiful chickens!"

"Yes," agreed the hostess haughtily, "all prize birds."

"Wonderful: "And do they lay every day?"

"They could, of course, but," grandiloquently, "in our position it isn't necessary for them to do so."

The initials of a friend

You will find these letters on many tools by which electricity works. They are on great generators used by electric light and power companies; and on lamps that light millions of homes.

They are on big motors that pull railway trains; and on tiny motors that make hard housework easy.

By such tools electricity dispels the dark and lifts heavy burdens from human shoulders. Hence the letters G-E are more than a trademark. They are an emblem of service—the initials of a friend.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

SEATTLE recognizes the high standing and accomplishments of the higher educational institutions of the state and all such institutions have received the support of her civic organizations and people generally, and commends the fine work being done at the State College of Washington.

Seattle recognizes that its progress as a great world city is dependent upon growth and prosperity of its neighboring cities and the agricultural country for which it seeks to be the trading, financial, industrial and distributing center.

At the suggestion of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce a state unity committee and an inter-city council have been formed so that Washington cities may work in unison and fulfill the destiny of this great state.

The Seattle Chamber of Commerce hopes all visitors to Seattle will avail themselves of the help and courtesy they will find at the Tourists' Information Department, 702 Third Avenue.

"THE OFFICIAL SWEATER"

"Saxonknit" Sweaters have set the pace and you'll find fellows everywhere proudly wearing their "Letter" on a real "Saxonknit" in the popular ruff-neck style.

At every university and college in the Northwest the Saxonknit has been selected by athletic authorities as the Official Sweater—and they choose it because the fellows would have nothing else.

Private Sundodger, the most astounding successful evader of work the outfit had ever known, had at last through a streak of ill fortune managed to get sent out to the rifle range with the rest of the company. Naturally, all his practice having been gained by bunk fatigue his success was not sensational. In fact, he missed twenty one shots on twenty-one chances.

"What in the sacred name of the Chinese Grenadiers is the matter with you?" roared the instructor. "Can't you hit a blamed thing?"

Sundodger sought wildly for an excuse:

" 'Taint my fault," he retorted. "The trouble is that the guy that set up the target didn't place it in a straight line from here."
